Name-a-Street Game: Any Number Can Play But Rules Are Strict

Stuart Road was on the map, so to speak, at a Township Committee meeting earlier this month. Should part of it be re-named to avoid confusion — or people irretrievably lost in the wilderness — as it winds eastward over the Township?

The road starts in the westernmost marches where Hopewell Township lies just across Province Line Road. In segments on the ground but unbroken on the map (where it's called the "A" Road), it travels east to The Great Road, crosses Cherry Hill and Route 206 to Mt. Lucas, then veers down to an intersection with Terhune.

Somehow a Stuart-Terhune intersection sounds as ridiculous as an intersection of, say, Library Place and Dodds Lane. But that intersection will indeed exist some day, as Research Road ("J" Road on the Map) is built and the Terhune-North Harrison area opened for Princeton Community Housing's apartments.

So Committee has begun to think that part of Stuart should, perhaps, be re-christened something else.

Who names Princeton's streets? Can Township Committee simply wave an ordinance and change a street name, even when the street exists in some places, only on a map?

A governing body can change a street name, but isn't likely to if residents howl. When The Great Road was re-aligned, members of the Princeton Historical Society suggested that the old part be renamed Cedar Grove, because a community of that name used to stand right about there. Residents, with mailboxes and stationery already printed, objected vigorously and it's still The Great Road in its entirety.

The Historical Society has a Street Names Committee, formed to do research on appropriate names for Princeton. Richard V. Lindabury is chairman, and he convenes meetings once each year.

Rules are strict. The committee chooses only the names of persons — Cedar Grove was a natural exception — and the names of persons dead at least 50 years.

"After all," Mr. Lindabury explains, "we are a Historical Society."

The committee is responsible for Bainbridge St. in the Borough and for Township streets still only on the map — like Burr Court and Steadman Court, off Arreton Road.

Duffield Place, on lower Bayard Lane, came from the Society, too. The developer originally mapped the cul-de-sac as "Pony Cart Lane," in cheerful acknowledgement of the riding stable that used to be there, but the Township Planning Board of that time — the early 1960's — regarded this as undignified, and Duffield won.

Sometimes residents themselves decide they don't like the street name. "Honey Brook Drive" property-owner asked if the name could be changed to "Pheasant Hill Road," and it was. The earlier name, many thought, would be confused with Pretty Brook.

"Ronnie Road" didn't meet with anybody's approval when it went

Think You Have Problems! Listen to Tales of Life in Elm Road Area

It began, Tuesday night, as a routine public hearing before Borough Council on construction of a sidewalk and curbs along Elm Road.

But before long, the floodgates opened and Council heard a lengthy, anguished outpouring of problems on drainage, flooding, speeding cars, bad lighting, and the conflicting jurisdictions of Borough and Mercer County. Most of the discussion centered around Elm Road.

The most hopeful note: the state's traffic investigator says a traffic light is "definitely warranted" for the Elm-Stockton intersection, Borough Engineer Donald Harney reported. The crossway has been under study by the state for the past two weeks, at the request of the Traffic Safety Committee.

Constant Flooding. People who live along Elm and on its tributaries, Armour and Allison Roads, told of properties below the road-surface, of water eight inches deep in the yard, of swirling storm waters that back up from Elm and never make it down the storm drain, but freeze and thaw and swirl and freeze and thaw, until they simply evaporate away.

"My property has always had a drainage problem," declared Mrs. Dorothy Commins, who lives on the corner of Elm and Allison.

"Instead of putting in sidewalks," proposed Edwin R. Metcalf, 52 Elm, "curb both sides of the road to channel the water."

And the traffic. Elm is posted at 25 m.p.h., a limit which drew some sardonic laughter from residents. Mercer County, owner of Elm, would prefer 35 but a long-ago Borough Council refused, related Mr. Harney.

He added, "The 25 m.p.h. IS enforceable."

"The speed problem on Elm is horrendous," declared Leo Martinuzzi, 93 Elm, and his wife said she had never seen police cars patrol the thoroughfare.

Lights Needed. Street lighting would make Elm a safer street, residents told Council and some of them recalled the pedestrian death on a dark Elm Road about ten years ago.

This Is Princeton

After the long discussion, when everybody seemed to have forgotten sidewalks, it turned out that almost everyone would agree to gravel pathways that wind around big old trees (to preserve them) and would accommodate bikes.

Councilman Martin P. Lombardo, seconded by Councilman Arthur P. Morgan, suggested tabling the whole thing for more work. No, said Councilman Thomas Cawley, the Borough could install street lights, control bad drainage through construction of six-inch high curbing, preserve the trees, campaign for a traffic signal and try to enforce speed limits.

In the vote, Barbara Sigmund joined Messrs Lombardo and Morgan to table; Councilman Robert Powell, Thomas Cawley and Joseph Moore voted "no."

This left Mayor Robert W. Cawley holding the tie. He cast his vote to table the measure, but warned, "I am commited to sidewalks there!"

Square to Be Closed. Palmer Square will be closed off, temporarily, starting May 5. The ordinance was passed unanimously Tuesday night, although Mayor Cawley conceded that the state hasn't yet given its approval.

Opponents predicted dire traffic jams, and Councilman Cawley admitted that Hulfish, Witherspoon and Chambers will have more of a load, perhaps requiring removal of all parking from those streets.

"Whatever can increase the role of the pedestrian in the center of town is valuable," Mayor Cawley stated, and Henry Arnold, the bicycle path man, said from the audience, "The plan is a plus for people!"

Carmen ("Irish") Fasanella, said his fellow taxi drivers wanted to know how they could make turns, with Palmer Square closed off. (A taxi stand is on the east side, near Nassau). Mayor Cawley explained that details and regulations will be spelled out in detail later. Possibly, he said, one side of the Square will be opened for late afternoon traffic.

One protester struck a new note which hasn't been sounded before. Mrs. Cuyler Stiles scoffed at the plan as "a bourgeois proposal that would only benefit businessmen."

To Study Rent Controls. Mayor Cawley appointed a six-member Housing Advisory Council whose first task will be to study a rent-control ordinance. Members are Sarah Wilhelm, Marcie Crimmins, Romus Broadway, Louise Stephenson, Mary Capouya and Fred Tyler.

Under a new state law, a community must give a "yes" or "no" answer within 90 days to any company applying for a cable television franchise. Council therefore passed a resolution setting up a Joint Advisory Committee on cable TV to find out whether Princeton needs CATV, how it might be regulated, and so on.

A report is to be given, with recommendations, in four months. The Township is expected to pass a similar measure, and the ten-member committee will be half and half Borough and Township.

Council passed a resolution endorsing a Princeton Community Bi-centennial Commission, to be led by William Selden. Members are George Conover, Elric J. Endersby, Edith Francis, Constance Greiff and, for the University, James M. Banner.

Speed on Clay, Pine and John will be reduced from 25 to 20 miles per hour under an ordinance passed Tuesday night.

Police Fail to Picket as Salary Agreement Nears

Word apparently got around, and there was no Patrolmen's Benevolent Association picket line at Borough Hall Tuesday evening. Police Commissioner Joseph P. Moore announced at Council meeting that a tentative settlement had been reached Tuesday in salary negotiations with the police. The PBA hasn't yet ratified the agreement, he emphasized.

The settlement provides a weighted, overall increase of 5.93%. Since most men are over the second and third-year level, the increase comes to 6.1 and 6.2%, Commissioner Moore explained. The salary settlement gives Borough police a $50 advantage over their Township counterparts.

Fringe benefits include $25,000 major medical and one day per year for each year after 25 years continuous service, as terminal pay.

The problem of days off caused the most delay, Mr. Moore said, and has still not been resolved. The PBA wanted three additional days off.

Possibly, this year, agreement may be reached on one more day, Mr. Moore said. The new settlement does not include an agreement on cleaning officers' shirts.

PROTEST SCHOOL SITE

In Community Park. Twenty neighbors of the area where the proposed (new) Princeton Nursery School would be built have petitioned Township Committee to reject the Schools' request to lease the land.

The school, now on Leigh Avenue, has plans to build on 1.3 acres of land used as playing fields by the Recreation Commission. The request to lease municipally-owned land will be discussed next Monday at 8 p.m. before Township Committee in Township Hall.

The site is not suitable, the neighbors declare, because the area is already congested with a heavy flow of traffic on Birch Avenue and Race Street. If the school is built, a 400 foot road will be constructed in Community Park starting at Race, along the back property line of homes on the west side of Birch.

"We firmly feel that public land should not be relinquished for private use," the neighbors say in a formal statement, "and that the land should remain in its entirety for recreational facilities."

They propose that Valley Road School be used as a nursery school after its Middle School pupils move to John Witherspoon School.

Those signing the letter are Henry Douglas, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Kornegay, Mr. and Mrs. James Greene, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Epps, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gee, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Boyes, Mrs. Helen Porter, Mrs. Reba Carraway, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hinds, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Newlin, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Huff and Mrs. G. M. Queen.

Writing for the John Witherspoon Civic Association, on the other hand, Mrs. Kathleen Edwards has urged Committee to grant the school permission to build on the plot.

NIGHT-CAP TIME

Bar Ordinance for Hearing. The friendly taverns of Princeton Township would like to stay longer and later as a charitable social) service to their clients and Township Committee has introduced an ordinance, at the tavern owners' request, allowing a 2 a.m. closing six nights a week.

It will be open to public hearing and comment at next Monday's 8 p.m. meeting of Committee. Members of Committee have warned that they aren't necessarily in favor of the measure; they just want to get it out on the table.

In other, drier business, Committee may introduce an ordinance increasing sewer rental charges, and one accepting Ross Stevenson Circle (Seminary development, off Mt. Lucas Road) into the road system.

So far, according to Administrator Joseph R. Nini, Committee doesn't know whether it can reach a decision by Monday on whether to approve granting a use variance to Edward C. Kopp III for construction of apartments.

to the Township Planning Board. It became "Ronald Lane," but even that didn't make new home-owners happy, and they successfully petitioned for a change to the present "Hemlock Circle."

In the northwest part of the Township, there is said to be a quiet move to get the name of Tennent Court altered. Tennent was not a tenant, but the Rev. William Tennent, acting head of the College of New Jersey (Princeton University) for six months in 1766.

Just because the Historical Society's Street Name Committee requires a 50-year-old death certificate, doesn't make it a law. Sturges Way, in the Borough, was named at the suggestion of Administrator Robert F. Mooney in honor of the late P. Mackay Sturges, mayor of the Borough from 1950 to 1958.

When Theodore R. Potts developed the Clearview area south of his Princeton Shopping Center after World War II, he named one of the streets Tee-Ar Place for . . . T. R. Potts. Harriet Drive is also named for a member of the Potts family.

Whodunit? Nobody remembers who named it "Research Road" and some members of Township Committee wonder whether it shouldn't be changed. The name is not Historical, like Witherspoon, nor Romantic like Green Shadows Lane (off Snowden). But some observers think it has an honest "Princeton" ring. And it does pass Opinion Research Corporation and go into the Office-Research zone.

When Princeton Community Housing's project is complete, its streets will need names. It has been suggested that one PCH street be named for the organization's president, Theodore Vial. But Mr. Vial reminds friends that his name is pronounced "Vile" and a "Vile Way" might not do.

Right On! Like most older towns, Princeton has confusing single thoroughfares with multiple names. Avalon-Wiggins - Hamilton - Rollingmead - Littlebrook - Tyson comes first to mind. Chestnut becomes Walnut and is still the same, unbroken street.

As you traverse Terhune, it's "Van Dyke," without so much as a bump in the road. When a former Township Committee said why not eliminate the name "Van Dyke" and call the whole stretch "Terhune," the residents of Van Dyke were so indignant that Committee hastily backed away. (Henry Van Dyke, the author for whom the section is named, owned the house called "Avalon," so he has a double responsibility for double street names.)

The question — will Stuart residents also protest? Can Committee act (assuming it decides to), before there really is an on-the-ground Stuart Road east of Route 206 with taxpayers whose stationery has already been printed?

Stuart, incidentally, was named for Mother Janet Erskine Stuart (1859-1914), sixth Superior General of the Society of the Sacred Heart. The school named for her bought the land and put the street through.

Brown's Trial Starts Before Overflow Crowd

Leonard G. Brown, Princeton Youth Center director, pled guilty Thursday in East Brunswick magistrate's court to one of the three charges brought against him by New Jersey State police.

Mr. Brown entered a guilty plea to the charge of assault against William J. Garth, 20, waiter at the Howard Johnson turnpike restaurant where an exchange occurred February 25 between Mr. Brown, employees of the restaurant and the State Police. Mr. Brown has admitted publicly that he pulled off Mr. Garth's clip on bow tie.

On the two other counts — drunk and disorderly and using abusive language — Mr. Brown pled not guilty. The assault charge to which he pled guilty carries a maximum fine of $500 and a maximum sentence of six months.

Mr Brown himself filed assault and battery charges against three state troopers; however, he withdrew charges against two of them after he allegedly identified one of them, John Grant. He charges Trooper Grant with beating his face "30 to 40 times" as he lay handcuffed on the floor of the patrol car following his arrest. Trooper Grant has pled not guilty.

Trial to Resume. The third session in the Brown case will begin at 1 p.m. this Thursday and will continue until 4:15 p.m. before Magistrate Frederick C. Schneider III. Last Thursday, at the initial session, the modern, 112-seat chamber was filled to capacity, chiefly with Princeton residents. An overflow of about 25 persons, including many Princeton High School students, remained in the corridor outside after the hearing began and the chamber doors were shut.

Friday's audience was smaller. The court is in the East Brunswick Civic Center, off Route 18.

The prosecution, led by State Deputy Attorney General G. Michael Brown, will continue Thursday to present its case.

Mr. Brown is being assisted by three other state lawyers: Kenneth P. Zauber, head of the trial section of the attorney general's office; Robert Cowan and Richard Newman.

An attorney present in the audience during testimony last week said it was unusual for the state to involve so many of its lawyers in an assault and battery case. Leonard Brown's attorney is Joseph Stonaker.

Charges Made. During Friday's hearing, Mr. Stonaker protested that the prosecuting attorneys were withholding the names and formal statements of prosecution witnesses. He was joined in his objection by Russell Annich, Princeton attorney who is representing Daniel Lewittes, arrested with Mr. Brown as he tried to protest the Brown arrest.

After a conference among lawyers and Magistrate Schneider, the deputy attorney general agreed to release the statements.

When the hearing resumes this Thursday, it is expected that attorneys will battle over the admission as evidence of tapes made in the patrol car while Mr. Brown was being taken from the restaurant to the police station.

Friday, Trooper James Kenna testified that he had held a microphone over the back seat of the patrol car, thereby broadcasting to troopers at the station the struggle between Mr. Brown and the troopers in the car. Attorney Brown said that he would allow Mr Stonaker to hear these tapes. It is expected that Mr. Stonaker will protest to their admission as evidence.

Also on Friday, Trooper Kenna testified that Mr. Brown's injuries — the left side of his face swollen and his left eye bruised and swollen shut — could have happened as troopers tried to get him into the patrol car. He bumped his head against the gutter of the car, Trooper Kenna said.

Later, he continued, Mr. Brown "lunged forward and landed on his face" on the pavement as he resisted troopers attempting to take him into the station. Mr. Brown's hands had been handcuffed behind him.

Troopers Injured, Too. Trooper Kenna's account was repeated by Trooper Gregory Chierchia and by three employees of a gas station next to the restaurant. Both troopers described Mr. Brown as having sustained "a scratch or two on the nose and a bump above his eye." Trooper Kenna also testified that he himself was injured, bumping his head so severely that he was absent for two days.

Testimony began Thursday with an account of the incident in Howard Johnson's as witnessed by Mr. Garth; the night manager, Gregory Kronowski, who said he is a Trenton State student and works only weekends at Howard Johnson's; a waitress and a Howard Johnson customer.

They testified that Mr.

Fund Has $2,700

Contributions to the Len Brown Defense Fund now total $2,700, according to Mrs. J.P. Cleaver, one of the organizers of the fund drive.

Money will pay for a court stenographer at the hearings and will defray legal fees. Sponsors of the fund set a goal of $3,000 but point out Mr. Brown may need more since the hearings are lasting for a longer period of time than had been estimated. Transcripts from court stenography are particulary expensive, Mrs. Cleaver said.

Contributions may be mailed to the Princeton Youth Center.

Brown and his wife waited about 15 minutes before Mr. Brown blocked the waiter's way, demanded service and pulled off the waiter's bow-tie. The manager, Mr. Kronowski, intervened, and eventually the Browns were served but not before the manager had telephoned for the state police.

By the time police arrived, the Browns had been served. Troopers waited until Mr. Brown had finished, and they all went outside where Mr. Brown and Mr. Lewittes, who had taken Mr. Brown's part, were arrested.

Restaurant employees testified that Mr. Brown continually used a single, four-letter word, and was loud and profane. Mr. Kronowski testified that, although Mr. Brown's speech was "fairly clear," there was alcohol on his breath. Mr. Garth also said he smelled alcohol.

The waiter, Mr. Garth, said that Mrs. Brown was "very nice and apologized to me." The waitress testified that Mr. Brown helped her in cleaning the table, when a solution to the problem of service had apparently been achieved, and the Browns were about to be served.

Tapes made by the state trooper in the patrol car reportedly reveal Mr. Brown loudly chanting obscenities as he struggled on the floor of the car.

PULLED FROM BIKE

By Hoodlums. A 25-year old Graduate College student was pulled from his bicycle last week and rubbed by a gang of hoodlums.

John Fields, 101 Graduate College, told police that he was riding his bicycle on College Road near the entrance to the Springdale Golf Club when he was grabbed from behind around the neck and pulled off his bike. His assailants, whom he described as four to five teenagers or men in their early 20s, demanded he turn over his money.

One, he said, grabbed his wallet containing $5 while he was on the ground. The others rifled his pockets. As he was pulled from his bike, his glasses were knocked off and broken. The incident took place at 8:25 p.m.

2 ACCIDENTS THURSDAY

In Borough, Township. There were two accidents late Thursday afternoon resulting in injuries, one in the Borough at 4:07 and one in the Township at 5.

In the Borough, Dale R. Spruill, 20, 82 Cleveland Street, was taken to Princeton Medical Center where she was treated for internal injuries after her car was involved in a collision at the intersection of Wiggins and Vandeventer. She was charged by Pfc. Arthur Jackson with failing to yield after stopping.

The second driver, Annette B. Hess, 67, 119 Linwood Circle, was charged with giving an improper signal.

According to Pfc. Jackson, Mrs. Hess told him she had put her signal on for a right turn off Wiggins onto Vandeventer when she changed her mind. After it had blinked for a few times, she shut it off, intending to go straight, when the two cars came together. The Spruill car was owned by Charles E. Madden, 16 Green Street.

In the Township, Charles J. Soriero, 34, of Stockton, was treated for contusions and abrasions of the nose and both hands at the Medical Center, after his 1972 sedan was struck in the side by a station wagon operated by Margery B. Ward, 52, of Belle Mead.

Sgt. Michael Kopliner ticketed Mrs. Ward for failing to yield at an intersection. In his report he noted that she had looked one way after stopping for the Jefferson Road sign but failed to look the other way. The impact forced the Soriero car sideways over a curb, causing the right rear wheel to be knocked off. Both cars had to be towed away.

Temperatures around the freezing mark this week have brought both frost and snow flakes, as spring continues to play footsie with early flowers and impatient people.

More low readings on Wednesday and Thursday will be followed by a milder trend — and wind abatement. The Man added that he will try again to bring a weekend without rain, and by now the law of averages is with him. April topped its normal rainfall in the first eight days.

OFFICE IS LOOTED

In Corwin Hall. A janitor supervisor's office in Corwin Hall on the Princeton University Campus was looted between 4 Sunday afternoon and 2:50 Monday morning, when the entry was discovered by a security officer checking the building.

Taken, Borough police said, were $1,114 in checks from a desk of the night supervisor, $30 in petty cash, four microphones with a combined value of $530 and four pageboy devices from their charging unit. Each of the latter was valued at $250 each. Total loss: $2,674.

side, the intruders kicked in a panel of the door to the supervisor's office, which they ransacked.

Pfl. Bernard Lenhardt conducted the initial investigation.

Sport Shop Entered. The Varsity Sport Shop, 138 Nassau Street, was entered and ransacked during the weekend but the owner told police he won't be able to determine what has been taken until he conducts an inventory.

Police said the culprits first used a rear fire escape to reach the roof of Allen's next door. They then crossed over from Allen's to the roof of the sport shop. After removing a plastic cover from a skylight, police said, they dropped down into the store and ransacked it.

They climbed out the same way, piling two five-gallon cans on a chair to reach the ceiling, leaving behind on the roof a red sneaker and a pair of basketball shoes still in their box.

Lt. Theodore Lewis reported that the store safe was not disturbed nor was $7 in the cash register. He added that it appeared to be "the work of kids.' Det. Timouthy Huizing is continuing the investigation.

DOCTOR's PAD USED

To Obtain Drugs. Borough police have charged a New Brunswick resident with using a doctor's prescription pad to obtain drugs illegally.

EASTER EGG HUNT SATURDAY: The Princeton Lions' Club will sponsor an Easter Egg Hunt Saturday at 10 a.m. in Marquand Park. There will be candy eggs for everyone, special awards for winners in each age bracket and live rabbits — two of which are held by Tom Johnson above (left) and Van Skillman, chairmen of the hunt. Rose Skillman, dressed as a bunny, will be present to distribute the prizes. The hunt is open to children through age 12. Rain date is April 21.

George S. Hatez, 31, has been charged by Det. Thomas Michaud with obtaining drugs by misrepresentation and possession of stolen property. He was arrested last week in the Marsh & Company drug store on Nassau Street by Det. Michaud and Det. Timothy Huizing. He was later released in $250 bail and faces a hearing Wednesday in Borough court.

Police said that Hatez was allegedly forging the doctor's name to obtain drugs. They quoted the doctor as saying he had been getting calls all week from pharmacies in the area inquiring about his "patients"—none of which the doctor said he knew.

SUBURBAN BUS EMPTIED

By Bomb Threat. Borough police stopped and searched a Suburban Bus Thursday after receiving a report from State Police that the 10 p.m. bus from New York to Princeton had a bomb on it.

Patrolmaen Arthur Jackson, Joseph Wilhelm and David Lewis, assisted by Township police, stopped the bus at Nassau and Harrison streets. They steered it around the corner into a vacant lot next to the Harrison Street firehouse, evacuated the passengers and searched it—without finding any bomb.

State Police had called the Borough police at 9:45, after receiving a call from the New York Port Authority reporting the threat. Lending urgency to the search, according to Lt. Theodore Lewis, was the fact that the Port Authority told the State Police that it had received a similar call the day before and two bombs had

"SEE YOU AT DISNEY WORLD!" — Mickey Mouse will be greeting young John Mislow at the famous Florida amusement park soon, but this week he joined in the festivities at the 370 East Nassau Street office of The First National Bank of Princeton when John and his parents were awarded first prize in the contest sponsored by the bank. Accepting the grand prize of a four-day, three night trip to Disney World from Donald Schonnel, left, bank vice-president and branch manager, are Mr. and Mrs. Kurt Mislow of 38 Maclean Circle.

TAKE WEDGWOOD PLATE

Philadelphia Pair Charged. Two Philadelphia men have been charged with shoplifting a $30 Wedgwood plate last week from Edward's Jewelers in the Princeton Shopping Center.

John F. Magno and Joseph E. Haslam were later released on their own recognizance by Township police, pending their appearance in Township court on Wednesday.

Police said the two were observed by the store manager who followed them out of the store, where they were arrested by Pfl. David Funk.

Bamberger's Hit. A Trenton resident, Roy E. Julian, has been charged with shoplifting two shirts and a pair of trousers Thursday from Bamberger's. They were valued at $26.

Julian was observed by William Turek of the store's security department, who later signed a complaint summons against him. Released in his own recognizance, he, too, faces an appearance Wednesday in Township court.

SEVEN ARE FINED

For Speeding. Seven of ten Princeton area residents paying fines in Borough court Monday were guilty of speeding.

Judge Theodore T. Tams Jr. fined Joseph Wilder, 38, 150 Valley Road $26, and Walter F. Gips, 52, 92 Bookstone Drive, $18. Paying $15 each were Florence Sharples, 50, 61 State Road; Julian H. Gross, 41, 683 Rosedale Road; Joel M. Solomon, 30, 36 Bainbridge Street, Mary F. Collins, 43, 156 Alexander Street; and James F. Cahill, 29, 98 VanWyck Drive, Princeton Junction.

Donald Vandegrift, 20, 38 Maple Street, was fined $205 for drunken driving. A second charge of careless driving, to which he pleaded not guilty, was dismissed.

Guido Procaccini, 20, 31 Markham Road, paid $15 for a red light violation, while a late inspection offense cost Ruth S. Goodman, 45, 52 Sturges Way, $10.

In Township court last week, Thorn Lord, 35, Province Line Rod, pleaded guilty to drunken driving and was fined $210 and lost his license for two years. For driving while on a revoked list, James R. Tkacs, 20, 252 N. Harrison Street, was fined $210. He pleaded not guilty.

Three were fined $15 each by Judge Tams for careless driving. Stuart G. Hoover, 17, 61 Mount Lucas Road, Anthony Russo, 18, 42 Laurel Avenue, Kingston; and Josephine Pirone, 19, 12 Sycamore Lane, Skillman.

Others: John J. Kerr, 79, 32 Hillside Avenue, $15, failure to yield right of way; Betty P. Buzard, 31, 238 Gulip Road, and Herman Lindelhoun, 41, 11 Weidel Drive, Pennington, both $12, stop sign infractions.

CHOOSING A SCHOOL?

New Survey Ready. How much is tuition? What's the student-body size? Is the athletic program strong?

Questions like these, and others, are answered in a new "Survey of Independent Schools of the Greater Princeton Delaware Valley Area," just published by a pair of Princeton residents, Carolyn Wilson and Elizabeth Ranney.

The book covers The Hun School, Princeton Day School, Stuart Country Day School of the Sacred Heart, Miss Mason's, Chapin and the Columbus Boychoir in Princeton.

Outside the Princeton community, it examines Rutgers Prep., Lawrenceville, Pennington; Villa Victoria, Trinity, Doane St. Mary's and, across the Delaware in Pennsylvania, George School, Newtown Friends, Buckingham

Friends and Solebury.

Schools were chosen because they were in reasonable commuting distance from various parts of the Greater Princeton-Delaware Valley area, the authors explain.

Both writers were members of the Newton Friends School parents' organization. Mrs. Wilson has been active in Girl Scout work, here and in Trenton. She is on the staff of the Professional Roster and edits the Roster's newsletter.

Mrs. Ranney is secretary of the Professional Roster and also is on the Roster's staff. She organized and served as co-director of the Student - Family Registry at Princeton for the Office of the Dean of Student Affairs. She has also done evaluation of the Work-Study Program of the University's Bureau of Student Aid.

For Parents. "This booklet is really designed with parents in mind," the writers say, "to help those who face the question of independent schools and simply do not know where to start. We hope it will provide enough background information so parents will approach the schools they are interested in with confidence."

The two writers developed a questionnaire, which schools were asked to complete. Then, "we also interviewed principals or admissions officers, talked to parents, teachers and young people. We felt that the quality of schools available to people in this area is very high."

The booklet is available, at $2.50, at the Princeton University Store; the Trenton Book Store (in Trenton) and David's Bookshelf in Morrisville, Pa. It may be bought by sending a check to Box 249D, Mt. Rose Road, Pennington, N. J. 08534.

Meat Boycott Raises Question: Who Won?

Yes, the six-day meat boycott did make itself felt in Princeton's markets. But, as one market manager points out, this Monday's wholesale meat prices were above last week's, so did it do any good?

"We certainly did feel it," says the manager of Princeton's A&P, "considerably. But this Monday, we had more traffic in our met department—in that one day—than we did all last week."

Produce, canned tuna, macaroni, fish and chicken went briskly, he reported. "Chicken just wasn't available at all last Monday and Tuesday — wasn't enough to go around! But on Wednesday we had it — at higher prices. The demand was up, you see."

The A & P did not lay off any butchers, but "personal holidays" and vacations were scheduled for meat workers during the boycott, the manager said.

Around the corner of the Acme, in the Princeton Shopping Center, manger Russell Wheeler watched a "steady — not sharp — increase during the week in macaroni sales, canned fish, frozen foods, regular fish sales." He declined to give percentage figures showing how much his meat sales had dropped, but he said, the boycott was indeed "felt."

Fish sales were double at Reilley's Market on Witherspoon, reported partner John Zullo. He found meat sales about cut in half, but business brisk in the game and poultry specialties, like squab, which his market features.

Mr Zullo and his brother, Dominic, dropped their meat purchases by about 90% in anticipation of the boycott. Meat will keep, they point out, if the cut is big enough and the refrigeration top-flight.

Another market, whose top man declined to be identified, said his store was "quite seriously" affected, and he too, tallied heavy sales in the canned fish and noodle department.

This manager suggested that a single, no-meat week is futile, and that possibly two meatless days each week for 52 weeks "might do it."

Like other markets, this one furloughed its meat department employees on unexpected paid vacations. The manager estimated that "hundreds of thousands" of people were laid off in meat departments across the nation during the one-week boycott.

"A boycott like this doesn't make the farmers very anxious to produce," he commented, "what's needed, is a basic change in people's eating habits."

SHE'S A DOLL: The role of Swanilda in the classic ballet, "Coppelia" will be danced by Dodie Pettit in the Princeton Regional Ballet production to be given in McCarter this Sunday. Swanilda is the village beauty who pretends she is a mechanical doll. (Jim McDonald Photo)

News Of The THEATRES

"COPPELIA"

Ballet This Sunday. The Sunday's 7 p.m. performance of "Coppelia" at McCarter will mark the tenth anniversary of the Princeton Regional Ballet Company, founded in 1964 by Audree Estey. Tickets for the performance still remain, but the 3 p.m. performance has been sold out.

More than 40 dancers from Princeton and environs will appear. The stars will be Dodie Pettit who will dance Swanilda, and New York guest artist David Anderson who will dance the role of Franz, hom Swanilda finally marries.

Dr Coppelius, eccentric dollmaker and dabbler in magic, will be Fredric Strobel, soloist with the National Ballet. Coppelia herself will be Christine Woodside. Frederic Franklin, director of the National Ballet Company, the resident company at the Kennedy Center in Washington, has staged this "Coppelia."

ABOUT NEXT SEASON.....

Five, at McCarter. A season extending from October 4 through April 7, incorporating five productions, only two of them firmly chosen, will be offered for 1973-74 by the McCarter Theatre Company under Louis Criss.

Chekhov's "The Sea Gull" will be the opener. It will be followed by either Osborne's "The Entertainer" or Ionesco's "Exit the King."

After the first of the year, repertory will return with a Shakespeare tragedy "Lear," "Othello" o "Richard III"—or possibly Brecht's "The Resistible Rise of Arturo Ui."

A new play, still to be chosen, will be next. One thing is sure the final offering will be Shaw's early comedy "You Never Can Tell."

MONTGOMERY

Pete 'n' Tillie (now playing) is a two-handkerchief movie starring Walther Matthau and Carol Burnett. It has a casual manner about it that neatly suggests how easily it could be happening to the couple next door, and capitalizes on the fact that covering emotions with a layer of wit is a true malaise.

Miss Burnett is a much more subtle comedienne in this film than TV has allowed her to be. Her moments with her dying son in the film are particularly good and warm. Matthau does a steady wry and likeable job as the husband

TRIANGLE!

With 'Future Schlock,' Triangle's 84th annual production, "Future Schlock," will be given in McCarter Thursday, Friday and Saturday, May 3, 4 and 5, and tickets are now on sale at the theatre box-office.

Anthony J. Stimac, who was associated with the McCarter repertory companies of the mid-1960s, will make his Triangle debut as director. He directed "The Tempest" and "Agamemnon" at McCarter—but not this seasons productions—and he also staged 'J. B." and "The Maastricht Easter Play" at the University.

Off Broadway, he did the musical called "The Contrast", which critic John Simon said was "the season's best musical." In London, he staged a musical version of "School for Wives."

Choreographer will be Bill Guske, dancer and choreographer, who was with the American Ballet Theatre for two and one-half years, and performed for 15 years on the Ed Sullivan show.

COWARD COMEDY NEXT

At Intime. With scarcely a break in stride, Theatre Intime plans to move from "Squanto!" to the frivolities of Noel Coward. "Hay Fever," the Coward classic, will be given the weekend of April 27-29 and May 3-6.

Sallie Brophy will direct—a nice touch, since she began her professional career in the national tour of Coward's "Private Lives" with Tallulah Bankhead.

She made her Princeton directing debut three years ago, when she staged Harold Pinter's "The Homecoming" for Summer Intime. Since then, she has directed Beckett's "Endgame" for Theatre Intime, the world premiere of William McCleery's "Hardesty Park" for Community Players, and "Happy Birthday, Wanda June" for last summer's Summer Intime. She teaches acting at Rider College.

MORE "RIVALS"

In Bucks County. An additional performance of Sheridan's "The Rivals" has been scheduled for this Saturday at 2 p.m. at the Bucks County Playhouse in New Hope. The play is being performed in New Hope by actors from England's Thorndike Theatre, in an exchange arrangement with the Playhouse.

"The Rivals" will also be given this Thursday at 7:30 p.m., and Friday and Saturday at 8:30 p.m.

READY TO HISS?

At last, the great John Huston returns to form in an arresting tale of the small-time fight game set in Stockton, California. Keach and Bridges are Huston's two fighters, one on the way down, the other a new hopeful. We are swept up into both their physical competition and their spiritual communion as well, as they face failure, pain and sorrow. It's Huston at his best, full of compassion and admiration for the sheer heroism of survival. USA, 1972, color, Rated PG.

J. W. Coop is a depression-bred rodeo cowboy who never quite made it, but is going to give it one more good try. Robertson (as director and actor) gives us a telling portrait of rural America, done with documentary precision. BENEFIT MOVIE SET

For University League Nursery. "Snow White and the Three Stooges" a musical movie based on the Grimm Brothers' fairy tale, will be shown at the Playhouse this Saturday at 10:30 a.m. to benefit the University League Nursery School.

New York Times movie critic Howard Thompson said of this Snow White "... As a frankly expansive, live action version of the beloved fairy tale, this Twentieth Century-Fox color picture, produced by Charles Wick, is pictorially lavish, beautiful and tasteful from start to finish..."

Directed by Walter Lang, the movie stars former Olympic figure skating champion Carol Heiss as Snow White. Patricia Medina plays the wicked Queen, Edson Stroll is Prince Charming, and the comic trio The Three Stooges are woven into the plot as protectors of the Prince and Snow White. The action of the story is helped along with song and two skating sequences with Miss Heiss.

Tickets may be purchased at Hulit's, Marsh's Drugs at the Montgomery Shopping Center, and at Toy Carousel at Princeton Shopping Center

"Squanto!" Has Wit, Relevance (and Length)

"Squanto!", written by Princeton University's resident playwright Jim Magnuson, enjoyed its world premiere last Thursday at Murray Theatre. Presented by Theatre Intime and co-sponsored by the UGA Projects Board, the Wesley Wesminster Foundation, the University Chapel, and Wilson College, the play had the added distinction of devoting its opening night earnings to the American Indian Movement. Four remaining performances were scheduled this week, Wednesday through Saturday.

Whatever one's political views today, the gift of money for American Indians seems an entirely proper gesture to the memory of the Squanto of history, the Pilgrims' friend. Throughout Mr. Magnuson's play Squanto is a more appealing and admirable character than nine tenths of those with whom he comes in contact.

This is an episodic play, showing numerous scenes from the last eighteen years of Squanto's life. We see him first in London, squatting Indian-naked and silent, an object of curiosity to a group of 17th century fops and their ladies. We find him six years later, still in England, wearing uncomfortable English clothes, taciturn and dignified in contrast with Captain John Smith's loud boastfulness and self-centered ranting.

We see him meeting William Shakespeare (here the playwright seems to be going history one better) and getting embroiled with Caliban and the bard in a "Tempest"-like six legged how d'ye do. Next he stands on a slave's auction block in Spain (having been kidnapped from America); then he is tilling the fields of a religious order, in leg-irons, until allowed to escape by a kind-hearted nun. He sits by Shakespeare's deathbed, and takes to heart the poet's urging that he return to America to help refugees from Europe seeking homes on the new continent.

Resentment Develops. Following a brief scene aboard a storm-tossed ship, Act II finds Squanto in the role of guide, friend, and even savior of the Pilgrims, led by William Bradford and Miles Standish. He teaches them how to plant corn, he brings them together with Massasoit's friendly Indians. Gradually friendship changes to suspicion: Standish's uncompromising insistence that God ordained the land for the use of the white men leads to a killing; the Indians resent Squanto's influence in the white settlement.

He suffers the fate of the middleman trying to keep peace between hostile forces. "You have made me an alien in my own land," he cries. In a dramatic trial scene his Indian enemies demand his death. The whites, with the same aim in mind, procrastinate. His life is prolonged. In a final scene, having left his few possessions to his English friends, he dies with an Indian medicine man chanting stony-faced at his side.

Reading this summary, let not theatre-goers fear that they are in for a dull history lesson. That exclamation point in the play's title — "Squanto!" — is full of meaning. It stands for surprises, for farcical interludes, for modern witticisms. When the captain from America introduces the London gentry to the virtues of tobacco, he lights a pipe with his pocket lighter.

Queen Elizabeth, begging Squanto to take her with him to America, leaps on him piggyback, and though he charges around the stage he can't shake the redhead off.

When Squanto is showing Priscilla Mullins how to make corn grow by putting a fish in with the seeds, he overcomes her doubt with the explanation, "Folk wisdom."

Pace Uneven. Each of these moments — and there are many like them — is funny in itself, and one segment of the audience was happily roaring a good part of the time. For the play as a whole, however, these moments spell danger. What sort of play is it? Where is it heading? Certainly the third act is serious, but the first act is like a comic strip, with some serious scenes thrown in.

When a play has something in it to please everybody, the chances are that it will entirely please nobody. The only real thread of unity is the character of Squanto himself. The drama lacks unity of treatment. The two acts laid in America hold together pretty well, but they are a different sort of writing from the first act.

While in a critical vein, I should add that the play is a bit overlong. The first act runs 55 minutes. Some pruning could be done here. If it were my play, I would also wield a sharp axe on the part of the Narrator.

Some narration of course is needed — facts to tie episodes together, perhaps even comments by the playwright. But Director Robert Knapp's Narrator overacts to the hilt, and her self-conscious archness seems grossly out of place, for example, during a tense, well-acted scene in which an Indian hostage and a white hostage stand, hands bound behind their backs and facing death, while offstage the leaders are concluding a treaty. Taste is a very personal matter, and many of the audience enjoyed the Narrator's sallies, but to me they were an embarrassment.

It is a pleasure to turn to some of the many good things in the production. Several scenes stand out, dramatically and humanly. Kim Powsner's sincere and simple Nun, helping Squanto to go free because she sometimes longs for freedom, leaves an appealing memory. Another quietly honest scene occurs between Billington (played by his collateral descendant, Phil Billington), when the Indian al most kills the lad he loves. Hats off to the director for two excellent "company" scenes — the Thnksgiving feast and the trail of Squanto — no small feat to manipulate so many people on a small stage.

IN PENNINGTON COMEDY: Harriet Cogan, Stephen Metelits and Don Thiel in a scene from the Woody Allen comedy, "Please Don't Drink the Water," which the Pennington Players will repeat Friday and Saturday.

Bill Bowman's "Captain" has a genuine comic touch; seeing him nearly blown off the ship's deck by an imaginary gale is a moment to savor. And Charles Crupi's Shakespeare is lively and natural, even eloquent as he lies (albeit a bit spryly) a-dyin.

Welcome Realism. Finally, I was much impressed by the Indian warriors. White men acting naked painted savages on the stage too often are self-conscious or else stiff caricatures. Nothing about the Indians in "Squanto!" is false. Their reality stirred a speculation in the reviewer's mind — whether there may be some quality of simplicity and honesty in the Indian character which brings out the same qualities in actors portraying Indians. With Wounded Knee fresh in the minds of Americans, this speculation may be worth pursuing. At any rate, one felt the valuable influence of Professor Alfonso Ortiz in the playing of the Indian characters.

Mention has been made of the unifying effect of the character of Squanto throughout the play. Much credit belongs to Ralph Keefer for his handling of the title role. Physically he commands respect, and his acting is marked by dignity and sincerity. Often laconic and immobile, he rises successfully to heights of passionate action. It is a good performance, without which the play would be without a backbone.

The setting designed by Christine Knodt is interesting, but of questionable help to the play. Resembling a corner of Bryce Canyon in Utah, it could conceivably serve as background to the scenes in Spain; less happily as a suggestion of Plymouth Plantation in Massachusetts; but by no sleight of eye as representing anywhere in 17th century England.

Theatre Intime has done us a service by producing this original play. Jim Magnuson has done us a service by writing it. We tend to use glib phrases such as "our American heritage" and "the ideals of our forefathers" without really knowing what the terms mean. Thanks to Mr. Magnuson a half-remembered name in elementary history

University Concert Season Ends on High Note; More Symphony Bookings in Future Advocated

Ten McCosh Hall was the setting for another Music from Marlboro chamber concert Thursday night. This being the final major chamber music event sponsored by the Princeton University Department of Music for this season, one looked forward to a strong finale.

This reviewer was not disappointed, for the Marlboro players displayed their finest talents, worthy of the splendid reputation Music from Marlboro has earned during the past decade. The program featured three works: Mendelssohn's Piano Sextet in D Major, Op. 110 for piano, violin, two violas, 'cello and bass; Mozart's Divertimento in D K. 205, for violin, viola, 'cello, bass, bassoon and two horns, and the Piano Quartet in G Minor, Op. 45 by Faure. Members of this varied musical assemblage were Hiroko Yajima, violin; John Graham and Jennie Hansen, viola; Ronald Leonhard, violoncello; Julius Levine, double bass; Eric Arbiter, bassoon; Michael Johns and Robert Routch, horns; and Lee Luvisi, piano.

This writer from time to time has hailed the Music from Marlboro foundation not only for their outstanding musicianship but for their programming, especially in resurrecting from the forgotten past many notable 18th and 19th century master pieces. While the Mendelssohn Sextet might not be in exactly such a category, it is a strong chamber work, very moving at times, possessing a rhythmic drive and melodic thrust that represents the early romantic period at its best.

At times, Mr. Luvisi's pianism, while remarkably deft and clear, seemed more than a bit overpowering. Miss Yajima, on violin maintained a marvelous sense of line, and has in the past five years developed into a first rate chamber music leader. Her tone is brilliant, warm and steady, and she has mastered the art of pacing a long movement or entire piece so that its structure is successfully realized in performance.

This means of course that dynamic shading, tempi, and ensemble balance must be accurately controlled while the music appears to flow effortlessly. And it did. The musicians who made up the remainder of the sextet must also share in the praise, for there were no audible weaknesses that these ears could detect.

Fine Horn Playing. The Mozart Divirtimento is what it is, a divertisement. Not very profound, it seemed anticlimatic appearing on the program after the Mendelssohn. The performance was equally strong, with some fine horn playing by Messrs. Johns and Routch.

In both works, Mr. Levine was his magnificent steady self, providing on his bass, the foundation on which the ensemble rests. His intonation and rhythmic sense is impeccable. It must give his associates a very secure feeling to have a Julius Levine in the ensemble.

With this concert, this reviewer completes a decade of covering for Princeton readers and concert-goers these Department of Music series is hard to believe that such a span of time has passed, and whereas the community and world in which we live has changed radically during these ten years, the music and musicians that appear on these programs have continued to maintain (for the most part) an excellence and craft that place them at the top of their profession.

One would like to see more attention devoted to contemporary American composers, less perhaps to encore type selections filling out the solo and duet recitals, and in general more orchestral concerts than we now receive. The New Jersey Symphony and Trenton Symphony are needed to fill the void vacated by the now-defunct Princeton Symphony and Princeton Chamber orchestras. That era may be over, but a newer, more vital one with respect to large ensembles is needed if the interest in the classics is to survive in the decade that lies ahead.

books is again a living being, and his life is seen to be relevant. 1/73

That the play at its first production has faults is no disgrace. It is hard to string episodes into a tightly knit drama and not play. And there always be audience disagreement about the ending. Does it fatally weaken the unity of the play? Interesting and distributed? Questions like these will be debated by those who see "Squanto!" The important thing is to see it, for it is an unusual offering with much to recommend it.

—Herbert McAneny

Deliverance (now playing) This is a stunning film, beautifully directed, acted and photographed. The unflinchingly presented violence may upset some viewers.

The story is concerned with a weekend canoe trip on the last untamed river in Georgia. It is a shrewd, devastating mixture of adventure and ecology. The book on which it is based, James Dickey's best seller, was beautifully written and the film's taut visual style reflects this. The viewer is swept into the narrative and for the next two hours the film never lets go.

Burt Reynolds is the leader of the four Atlanta businessmen who take the trip. He wants to ride the currents as an adventure and because the river is doomed. His companions are tag-alongs: Jon Voight, Ronny Cox, Ned Beatty, and what happens to these four men is really horrifying.

John Boorman's direction gives the film an unerring sense of rhythm to match the backgrounds. The color has the look of camouflage, bathed in browns and greens. Vilmos Szigmond has provided the same ravishingly beautiful photography as he did in "McCabe & Mrs. Miller," "The Hired Hand" and "Images."

GARDEN

Fat City (Wednesday thru Saturday) John Houston's film about some inarticulate types getting through life takes place in dismal bus stations, sweaty arenas, barrooms, and at farm fields and orchards being worked by men who will never get used to farm labor. On the sound track is the song "Help Me Make It Through The Night."

The two central characters are Billy Tully (Stacy Keach), a former boxer now living in flop houses, and Ernie Munger (Jeff Bridges), a young amateur not much interested at first in fighting professionally. Susan Tyrrell and Candy Clark as the women in their lives add pace to the film. This is, essentially, a Houston attempt to make an interesting film about boredom.

J. W. Coop (Sunday thru Tuesday) Clint Robertson was the co-writer, producer, director and star of this film about a champion rodeo rider, which was released in January 1972.

The rider, obsessed with being number one among the champions, must adjust to the changes that have taken place in society during the ten years he has been in prison. The script, partially realistic, partially metaphorical with a dash of Freud, leaves a lot of unanswered questions.

AUCTION ON THE AIR: Rotary Club members staging Friday night's radio auction, from which proceeds of $6,380 will go to the club's scholarship fund. Left to right are Arthur Curtiss, Rotary President; Ray Bowers, Peter Hadge and Herbert Hobler, the latter serving as auctioneer.

ing arranged by Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Reeves Hicks. Mrs. Bayard Dodge is honorary chairman.

Professional advice in selecting antiques dealers is coming from John Puckett and James Gregory, operators of The Pink House in nearby New Hope, Pa. Selling displays will be arranged in several rooms of the Y's Avalon Place complex near the center of Princeton.

So far, 36 dealers from New York, Delaware, Pennsylvania and New Jersey have reserved space for the indoor event.

Their offerings will include furniture, glass, china, toys, dolls, books, documents, jewelery, metalware and miscellaneous objects to entice antiques collectors and history buffs. American items will dominate, but many foreign imports will be available.

On Saturday, selling hours will be 10 to 10 and on Sunday, from noon to 6. A donation of $1.25 will be asked, but discount tickets are now available from antiques shops throughout the northeast.

Parking will be supervised and the Y Rangers Club will sell refreshments. A 1790's floral print from the Curtis Botanical Series will be awarded to a guest as a gift of the show and The Pink House.

AUCTION NETS $6,380 For Rotary Scholarships. Approximately 500 bidders participated in the first annual Rotary Auction heard over WHWH last Friday evening between 7:30 and 11:30 p.m., resulting in $6,380 in donations.

The callers bid on 68 services and merchandise items valued at over $8,500 which had been donated by area merchants. Proceeds from the auction will be used by the Rotary Club to furnish specialized training to area students through the Princeton Rotary Scholarship Fund.

The biggest single fund raiser during the evening was a Caribbean Cruise on the Canberra, valued at $1,200, which brought in $945. Throughout the evening there was spirited bidding on practically all the items which included color TV sets, Marco Island vacation and other sundries.

The Rotary benefitted from the bids of many charitable bidders, who in some cases pushed the price of an item over its actual value. A $50 Nassau Savings account went for $55, a $100 savings bond (purchase price $75) was bid up to $80, a $75 dinner at the Rusty Scupper went for $78, and three 45 minute voice lessons valued at $50 were sold for $55.

Naturally the services of a skilled carpenter for a day went for more than the advertised value of $100. Ever tried getting a hold of one?

Several other items went for their full value, but there were also some bargains such as a Finnish fur parka valued at $650, which brought in only $385.

During the evening, 40 Rotarians and high school Rotary Interact students worked at the station handling calls and doing the broadcast. Auctioneer was Herb Hobler, President of Nassau Broadcasting Company assisted on the air

Teacher Evaluation Needed.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

One of the disputed items in the current contract negotiations between the Princeton Regional Board of Education and the Princeton Regional Education Association pertains to the evaluation procedure for non-tenured teachers.

The problem appears to be that the PREA is requesting 3 evaluations per year rather than the 2 evaluations the existing contract calls for.

The Board's refusal to grant this request is incomprehensible to me. A good system of evaluation is one of the most effective means of furthering professional growth and aiding in the assessment of potential candidates for tenure, thereby benefiting teachers and students alike.

It is a credit to our teachers that they are looking for insight into their own performance. To deny them this opportunity is to deny our children the quality of education they deserve.

Comments on Abortions.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Commenting on the letter of writer who was pleased to hear that now abortions will be allowed up to the third month of pregnancy, at Princeton Medical Center.

I wonder if those who would agree with that point of view, in this day of permissiveness, have ever considered the application of common sense and a bit of discipline, to avoid that rather sad solution to the unwanted baby. This is the opinion of a senior citizen mother of two, who was happily married for 51 years.

I do however feel that the pursuit of assuredly safe methods in prevention of unwanted pregnancy is desirable. However, I cannot forget the sad plight of the parents and babies born to mothers, who took the so-called "safe" drug to prevent morning sickness then later gave birth to sadly deformed babies.

I would hope that any method used as safe would not in case of a slip up, have similar tragic results.

From an ethical standpoint, I just cannot imagine any one of the conscientious doctors, who have cared for me over the years - being happy over having performed an abortion except in the case of serious illness or rape. Even then, I believe such an operation would afford the least satisfaction of any successful operation.

In the case of the pregnancy of an unmarried girl - there are many childless couples who long for a child to adopt and love.

French Market to Re-Open

The French Market will re-open on Friday, April 13 from 8:30-11:30 a.m. at its usual place, the island in front of Town Topics. Daffodils will be in abundant supply.

Patterned after the stalls around Place de La Madelcine in Paris, The French Market succeeds a stall composed of a chair and umbrella where pretty girls sold cut flowers and garden produce to benefit a France devastated in World War I.

The Market, now 55 years old, raises funds for the benefit of the Princeton community through the donations of The Garden Club of Princeton to The Princeton Public Library for books on gardening, to maintenance of Marquand Park, the Watershed Association, the Princeton Medical Center and The Community Chest. It will be open from April 13 to June 1.

FUNDS ARE NEEDED

By Red Cross. Princeton Red Cross Chapter is now conducting a Balance-of-Need Campaign.

To continue to serve its large area of Princeton and surrounding municipalities — and to continue to bring to the people of all these areas free blood, first aid courses, water safety programs, Meals on Wheels, youth programs and more, the Red Cross must obtain additional funds to meet its 1973 budget. Donations should be sent to Princeton Chapter, American Red Cross, 102 North Harrison St.

MAKE A TERRARIUM

At Public Library. The Princeton Public Library invites children in grades 3-6 to Make a Terrarium on Wednesday, April 18, at 3 p.m. The one-hour workshop will be led by George and Bernice Schwartz, co-authors of "Life in a Log."

Each child will make a terrarium using plastic cups and seeds as well as moss and plants which Mr. and Mrs. Schwartz have discovered in the Princeton environs. Attendance will be limited to 20 children. Registrations are being taken at the children's desk.

VOLUNTEERS WANTED

At Peace Center. Volunteers are now being recruited to staff the Peace Center, 163 Nassau, do research on Center projects and help with clerical work.

Peace-related projects now in the planning stage, include continuing study of Congressional legislation on military expenditure, research on materials and techniques which could be used in peace education, and planning toward an Amnesty Day on Sunday, May 6. The Center also hopes to hold evening sessions on a variety of topics related to peace

STEREO DECKS TARGET

Of Parked Car Thefts. Stereo tape decks and tapes were the favorite target of thieves who entered five parked cars last week in Princeton.

Township police report the entry of two unlocked cars in the main lot in front of Russell Hall on the Hun School campus. Samuel C. Briegel of the Hun School lost an 8-track tape player valued at $100, 10 tapes worth $65 and a $5 fire extinguisher from his pickup truck. Powder from the extinguisher was sprayed throughout the truck's interior, police said.

W. Whitfield Rutter of the school reported losing a $100 tape deck, two rear speakers and $125 cash from his wife's brown leather wallet taken from the front seat. The wallet was found later on Russell Road intact except for the money.

White powder, apparently from the extinguisher from the Briegel truck, was sprayed throughout the car. The extinguisher has not been recovered, police said. Both thefts took place between 3:30 Friday afternoon and 9:30 Saturday morning.

In the Borough, Bradley Gsell of Holder Hall, Princeton University, reported to Borough police last week the theft of a $55, 8-track stereo from his car parked in the rear of the Tower Club on Prospect Avenue. He added that a pair of prescription sunglasses valued at $55, which he had left on the dash, had been shattered.

Fred Alexander, Colonial Club, 10 Prospect Avenue, lost an 8-track stereo ($75) and 12 tapes ($18) from is car parked behind the Colonial Club, while Brooks Washburn, 211 Foulke Hall, lost a cassette player valued at $120 and four tapes from his car parked behind Cannon Club. In each case, police said, a vent window had been broken to gain entry.

Jeff Levin of the Princeton Inn College reported the theft Sunday of his $150 brown leather coat from Stevenson Hall, 91 Prospect Avenue. He also lost a pair of $47 prescription sunglasses in the coat.

LEVINE HOME ENTERED

On Prospect Avenue. The home of Laurence E. Levine, 633 Prospect Avenue, was entered last week by a thief who stole a pair of stereo speakers valued at $300. A stereo receiver was tampered with but not taken.

To get inside, the intruder first cut a rear screen to reach inside and unlock a patio door. Then a rear plate glass door leading to the dining area was kicked in. Sgt. David Potts responded to a 2:30 a.m. call Saturday by Mr. Levine, who said that he had just arrived home and discovered that his home had been entered.

Sgt. Potts returned later in the morning and found a case of assorted French wines near a fence that surrounds the property.

Figurines Vandalized. Mrs. Janet C. Morgan of Constitution Hill was the victim of vandals who last week destroyed stone figurines in the garden area of her home.

She told Township police that she had heard "thud" noises about 11:30 Friday nigt in the direction of her flower garden. Next morning she discovered that someone had broken three heavy stone "nymph" type figurines from their bases and then used the pieces to break a large white stone nymph figurine water bath.

She said the figurines had a great sentimental value, as they were installed shortly after the home was built in 1897. Police said the vandals entered the property from the west side by jumping across a wire fence that they had bent over. Sgt. Michael Kopliner searched the area with negative results.

BUNNIES ON DUTY

At Shopping Center. Children accompanying prents to Princeton Shopping Center the next two weeks will receive a candy gift from Easter bunnies.

The bunnies will be pretty girls from an area modeling and charm school, Bonnie Lucash and Susan Bethke, students at the Nanci-Leigh De Vito School of Modeling and Charm, Hamilton Square.

The bunnies will be at the Shopping Center from 3 to 5:30 p.m. Thursday and Friday this week and next week and from 11 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

IT MAY BE SPRING...
But Fall Planning Has Begun.

Spring is barely three weeks old, but the Rocky Hill community Group has already started planning for its eighth fall fair and auction, known as The Bid 'n' Buy, to be held October 13. Co-chairmen Mary Hayden, Sue Myers, and Francie Merritt are working to recapture the aura of small town harvest-time fairs of the past.

ROCKY Hill welcomes all comers with a wide variety of activities, booths, and the main event under the big tent - the auction. There will be an historic slide show of Rocky Hill then and now, bands playing throughout the day, games for children, refreshments to suit any palate, pottery displays, a booth for pastels and silhouettes, and several booths offering goodies from neighborhood kitchens, gardens, and the handicraft workshops.

For the Bid 'n' Buy's new addition - a cookbook, the group is looking for recipes in the following categories: economical menus, low calorie menus, natural foods menus, and special occasion menus. Send recipe contributions to Jo Carris, 48 Princeton Ave., Rocky Hill, 08553, or phone 921-6206. Why not recycle discarded goods; call Mary Lou Meyer (921 9331) for pick up.

Still "Impasse"

No date has been set so far for meetings with Charles Sobol, mediations expert who will confer with Princeton's teachers and the school board to work for an end to the "impasse" declared last week.

Mr. Sobol is with the New Jersey Public Employment Relations Commission (PERC), charged with bringing the two parties together.

The teachers' organization — PREA — and the school board filed a legal notice of impasse with PERC last Tuesday to help settle differences regarding evaluation for tenure, transfer of personnel and about 30 other items.

CAMPING PLANS MADE
By YMCA Rangers.

Boys ages 10-12 are going camping, canoeing and mountain climbing this summer with the Princeton YMCA Ranger Camp.

Ranger Camp involves two weeks of day time camping where groups of boys learn campsite development, cooking, fire building, shelter needs and general woodsmanship in preparation for an extended trip.

Boys 10-11 will be canoeing for four days on the Fulton Chain Lakes in the Adirondack Mountains. This site provides a moderate challenge for boys of this age group in wilderness camping and extended canoeing. It was also chosen as the training site for Ranger leaders because of excellent opportunities it provides in outdoor education.

For further information on these and other Ranger trips contact the Princeton YMCA. Registration has begun, so enroll as soon as possible.

ANNUAL MEETING SET
For Princeton Seminary.

The Friends of Princeton Seminary annual meeting will be convened by co-presidents Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Erdman, Jr., in the Main Lounge of the Campus Center on Wednesday, April 25, at 10:30 a.m.

Highlighting the day's events are three tours and, after luncheon, an opportunity to hear Dr. Paul Ricoeur.

The first tour, limited to the first 30 registrants, will be conducted through the William H. Scheide Library of Bibles and related material, housed in Princeton University's Firestone Library. The second, open to the next 50 guests, is of the Seminary's own collection in the Speer Library. Other visitors will be shown through the historic houses on campus now used as faculty homes.

The morning meeting, scheduled to enable members and their friends to attend the 10 a.m. service in Miller Chapel, will also include brief talks by students in the Seminary's various degree programs and the election of officers for the coming year.

Persons interested in attending should telephone or write to Mrs. Maurice H. Smith, Princeton Theological Seminary, Princeton 921 8300.

PINE MANOR TODAY
Topic of Meeting Monday.

Alumnae, friends and prospective students of Pine Manor Junior College will gather Monday at 3:30 at the home of Mrs. Hugh D. Wise, Jr., 77 Westcott Road, to learn about the college today. DON ALLEN SAYS

TIRED OF THE HIGH-COST OF LIVING ?

TRY THE LOW-COST OF LOVIN'

I hate to keep mentioning it all the time — but did you ever stop to think what a great public service your friendly ol' florist is rendering over here in Hopewell. I mean we just keep pourin' it on. Flowers for one dollar. Really seems kind of anti-establishment and un-American doesn't it. I mean bucking national trends like we do.

Everything keeps goin' up — up — up — and ol' Don Allen just keeps plowin' along with his little dollar flower specials. But I have this magnificent obsession you see — this thing about flowers. Even if you can't afford to have meat on the table — at least let it be said of Don Allen — he made it possible to have flowers on the table.

Does great things for your love-life, too. If you don't think there is power in our flowers, try this homely experiment.

Go to the butcher shop and have them wrap up $1.00 worth of hot dogs. Then come to us and have us wrap $1.00 worth of flowers. Next hand them to your lover. Don't be surprised if she looks at you like you are crazy — on the one hand — and with disbelief on the other.

Our $1.00 Lovin Specials this week will include generous amounts of the following flowers:

Daisies, gladioli, carnations, pompoms, daffodils, iris, tulips and anemones.

BEHIND THE SCENES

Staging the Fete. Until drivers along Washington Road begin to glimpse the tent tops and colorful pennants which appear in Windsor Field the week before Fete day (June 2), there is little evidence of the year of hard work that lies behind the annual June Fete for the benefit of the Princeton Medical Center.

Fete committee chairmen and hundreds of volunteers are already involved however, in the final thrust of activity which will translate the planning into Princeton's biggest volunteer benefit — this year, The Roaring Twentieth!

There are uncountable numbers of unsung volunteers who accept Fete jobs which require year-long efforts, provide the "back-bones" of the Fete, but blend so smoothly into the over-all effort, they receive little public notice.

With two months to go, the co-chairmen of the staging committee, Mrs. Peter Budd and Mrs. Thomas Raser, are already well into one of the most exacting and massive jobs related to the Fete. Following consultations with all other Fete chairmen, the basic plan for the layout of the Fete field receives minor alterations to accommodate shifts for needed space or changed activities or features.

Identification of the special needs of each individual area comes next, and this leaves Mrs. Raser and Mrs. Budd with a shopping list that reads: sand, water, cinder blocks, electrical hookups, tent sizes, tables, chairs, trash cans, snow fencing, and innumerable other pieces of equipment or services. All of this must be winnowed down to absolute essentials for the sake of economy and then contracted for, ordered, rented, begged or borrowed.

During the last week before the Fete, staging is very like the putting together of a giant puzzle as deliveries of equipment, services of volunteers, projects of individual organizations, and the requirements of Fete co-chairmen are all coordinated.

Mounting excitement as the Fete day approaches, and the fun during the Fete day keeps spirits high and enthusiastic. "But", added Mrs. Budd and Mrs. Raser, "what really warms the cockles of all our hearts is the crew of men, who despite Fete exhaustion, arrive back on the field with Sunday's dawn and tackle the gigantic job of dismantling, sorting, packing, and trucking away or storing all the Fete equipment and materials."

STUDENT FINED

For Marijuana Possession. Matthew Lenning, 206 1937 Hall, Princeton University, was fined $15 by Judge Theodore T. Tams Jr. last week in Borough court for possession of marijuana.

Lenning, who pleaded not guilty, was represented by attorney Theodore D. Vreeland.

William A. Blackburn, 18 Bank Street, charged with two counts of being drunk and disorderly and two of using loud and abusive language, was fined $25 on each one. In addition, he received a suspended sentence of 30 days in the Mercer County Workhouse on each of the four charges and was placed on probation for one year.

Willie A. Grady, 144 Witherspoon Street, was indicted by a Grand Jury for possession of lottery slips and lottery paraphernalia. Lynda K. Geier, 27 1-2 Witherspoon St., was ordered to pay $10 court costs, after Judge Tams waived the fine in an assault charge brought by Pfc. Victor Fasanella.

Robert F. Motley, 12 Berrien Court, charged with possession of a rifle, waived a hearing before Judge Tams. His case was sent to the Mercer County Prosecutor's Office.

FAIR IS PLANNED

In Monmouth Junction. Plans are underway for the Piccadilly Fair to be held Saturday, May 12, from 11:30 to 4 at the Monmouth Junction Elementary School, Ridge Road, South Brunswick.

The Monmouth Junction Parent-Teacher Association is hoping to appeal to the adults

Professor Here Is Chosen as TV Series Host

A Los Angeles television station reached across the continent to tap a Princeton University faculty member as the "historian-host" for a major film - forum series scheduled for national viewing beginning this Saturday.

The individual chosen is 43-year-old James H. Billington, 6 McCosh Circle, Professor of History and McCosh Faculty Fellow at Princeton, an authority on Russian intellectual history, who some five years ago as author of a "Life" magazine article on the "Decline of the Humanities" brought that magazine one of the largest reader responses in its history.

Mr. Billington, who spent January in Los Angeles filming the 10-part series and lining up and working with 28 of the nation's best-known academicians who serve as panelists on the shows, will not be totally new to many viewers.

He teamed with Walter Cronkite and Charles Collingwood on the CBS network last year for President Nixon's trip to Moscow, and several years ago was the historical consultant for an NBC documentary on the history of Leningrad.

Prime Time Viewing. Under a grant of $604,000 from the National Endowment for the Humanities, Los Angeles Public Broadcasting Station KCET has prepared ten 1 1-2 hour to 2 1-2 hour programs bringing to television screens in prime time Thursday and Saturday evenings "motion pictures with historical significance" produced in England, France, Italy, Russia, and the United States.

"Humanities Film Forum," as the series is titled, will make its local debut on at least four area channels: 12, 23, and 52 at 8 p.m. and 13 at 9:30 p.m. The initial offering is "Hamlet," a 1969 British film. (Channel 12 will also air "Hamlet" Thursday, April 12, at 8 p.m.)

Mr. Billington, a member of the Princeton faculty since 1961, will introduce each program, giving a general setting regarding the chunk of history with which the program is concerned as well as other background. "We hope that a sense of the historical setting may both deepen enjoyment of the films and encourage critical thinking about enduring issues," comments the former Rhodes scholar.

Among the other films are "Richard III" (British, 1956), "Oliver Twist" (British, 1948), "Ballad of a Soldier" (Russian, 1959), "Alexander Nevsky" (Russian, 1938), "The Battle of Culloden" (British, 1964), "The Rise of Louis XIV" (French, 1966) "The Andersonville Trial" (American, 1970), "Umberto D" (Italian, 1951), and "The Cranes are Flying" (Russian, 1957).

Each film will be shown uncut and uninterrupted, some for the first time on American television.

Billington will then moderate a panel discussion unrehearsed and unstructured, which he emphasizes will not simply be of the "talk show" format. The discussions seek, he explains, to combine spontaneity with "intellectural bite" — producing at its best "the pursuit of truth on camera."

"We hope the 10-week series will extend the historical and humanistic consciousness of the general movie-goer," says Billington. "Movies, by definition, emphasize the human side of history, and the dialogue brings the humanistic disciplines — history, literature, anthropology, for instance — to bear on the broader issues."

THE BLACK SHEEP at 16 Witherspoon Street is an all-leather world where you can even buy a leather halter. Lee Yarnell (left) is co-owner and creator-designer of most of the articles the shop sells. With him is Bill Terry, Black Sheep's manager.

IT'S NEW To Us

LIVELY LEATHERS

At The Black Sheep, Action clothes interpreted in various leathers are the pulseheat at The Black Sheep, 16 Witherspoon Street.

Supple, easy designs, all handcrafted, range from pants and skirts, jackets and vests to caps, moccasins, bags and belts. Especially belts.

In fact, a leather belt can certainly go a long way, as Lee Yarnell of The Black Sheep can testify. His skillfully - made belts with their unusual buckles started the action at the first Black Sheep some six years ago in Fair Haven, a town near Rumson.

Lee and his four assistants have made everything in the shop, except for the famous Frye boots for men and women. This includes the self-sole moccasins which are totally shaped to the buyer's foot. And also some 28 styles in leather sandals — more than any of us imagined existed. The flats are in now, and heel versions are due. Black Sheep takes a tracing of your foot, there's about a one-week lapse before delivery of the sandals. Most are $20; a few are $25. They wear forever.

The Black Sheep is using kip — a leather that's a little heavier than calfskin — in most of its shoulderbags. It has the look of calf and has a life-time quality about it. The bags have highly individualistic closings — a pewter clasp, or the leather itself, or an antler tip, or ceramic buttons held by thongs.

Leather gets even better with age, Lee Yarnall told us. "You can even wash it. Use saddle soap and a brush."

The belts are of harness leather and vary in widths. About 80 percent of the buckles are made by craftsmen from brass or pewter or silver. One is bronze. Some are made by the lost wax method, others are acid-etched and others are sandcast. A few from England are diecast. There are about 150 belts in the shop now. It's a great experimental scene, highly imaginative.

Among the leather garments for men and women, a handsome coat of heavy green suede — a rich, deep green. It's about knee length in a collarless style. There's a four-gore suede skirt in an off-brown with an easy fullness at the hemline. "Wash it in pure soap," Lee Yarnell told us." Use water about body temperature."

Most of the garments are smooth leather. Goat, cow, elk and deer are the skins used. The pants — for both sexes — are cut blue jean style, and there's a good range of color.

Leather shirts are much in demand these days. The Black Sheep uses the easy fitting, western cut with a yoke. ($80 and washable). These also come in a chamois.

We found six-pocket shirts — three on each side of the front zipper — and short skirts, halter dresses in soft, pale chamois. There are halter tops in suede, some plain and others with an appliqued mushroom or so. (About $13). "Fronts," too; those darted patches of leather held by slim straps.

The vests, most were in men's sizes, often feature metal buttons that The Black Sheep artisans have made themselves. Some are held by pieces of elkhorn. (Prices from the high $20's). The women's jackets include attractive shorties with deep collars. The long coats will be brought in this fall.

All of the garments are unlined. "Linings cover up messy workmanship," Lee Yarnall said forthrightly.

One more thing, browse the Black Sheep's handcrafted jewelry. Most of it is silver, although there are intriguing conceits in brass. Agates-and-sterling in a pendant necklace; lapus lazuli and shell discs in another. Handcast earrings in intricate dangling styles; bracelets alternating stones, discs and silver bars. (From $3 to $80)

The display includes fascinating hair ornaments in hammered metals. Some are as much as four inches long. (From $3) The rings feature either stones or silver scarabs or engraved patterns. (About $12)

And to round it all up, The Black Sheep has fine leather wallets ($6.50 to $16); watchbands in several styles (from $2.50), and for the papoose in your family, soft, tan moccasins almost too tiny to be believed.

THE WEEKEND WHIRL

At Allen's Flowers. You beat the crest of the wave of $1 weekend specials at Allen's Flowers, Hopewell, if you get to the Main Street shop early Thursdays. The shop is flooded with flower lovers from then on, with a great surge at midday on Fridays as the girls with jobs nearby come rushing in. Saturday, of course, is steadily busy.

The cut flowers are fresh and beautiful, banked in containers at the center of the attractive store. Long-stemmed daffodils — Unsurpassable" variety flown to the flower markets from Oregon, their blooms just ready to open; galdiolas, including some in soft shades of lavender; masses of carnations flown from Bogata...

Bogata? "Of course," Don Allen told us. "Right now it is summer in Bogata and there's a glut of carnations. They're flying them north to the markets." With modern methods, the flowers are fresh and just in bloom in his store.

There are big pots of roses, rich reds still in bud; others of marguerite daisies, iris and fohages. The weekend special, in force all year, is eight flowers for $1.

We were there just before the rush last week and found Mrs. Richard Hughes of Princeton, wife of the former governor, busy with two flower projects. She helped foil-wrap a great number of fragrant hyacinths she and her husband were sending to Morris Hall in memory of a friend who had recently died. Sister Margaret Mary at Morris Hall will distribute the plants among the elderly patients, and write a note to the family of the deceased acknowledging the memorial gift.

And Mrs. Hughes' other project was for a wedding...a quiet affair to be held the next day at her house. The bride, a woman who had given fashion advice for Mrs. Hughes' Philadelphia TV show; the bridegroom a widower. "This is my regular weekend port of call!" Mrs. Hughes said happily, checking on the rosebuds and babys breath and rhododendron. A skilled arranger herself, she decided to make the bridal bouquet as well as fill the vases at home.

Allen's Flowers is famous for its arrangements, where Mrs. Shirley Allen is the specialist, with Debbie Szilagyi, the shop manager, a close second. Mrs. Allen was working on a "formal" corsage when we were there, an assignment that intrigued her, "because most of the requests are for informal arrangements for the girls to wear."

There are interesting pot plants at Allen's, too. We noticed frill-edged African violets, azaleas, enormous gloxinias, ("our grower starts them from seed," Don Allen comments); orange-toned kalanchoe; gardenia plants, tulips, exotic bromeliad — a pineapple type of bloom that in turn sprouts flowering shoots, and many others. Everything is several dollars cheaper if you pick up your selection.

And, not to be forgotten, Allen's is also famous for its pretzel barrel. Have some.

COTTONS FROM INDIA

At Bailey's, A real find in pure cotton tops from India, embellished with hand embroidery, is being passed along to customers by Bailey's in Princeton Shopping Center.

In the price range of $7.98 to $15, the selection includes deep blue tops with long sleeves and no collars, the bodice embroidered in white, and patch pockets low on the skirt. Long enough for a dress, and yet short enough to match with pants.

Another, somewhat shorter, is white cotton, embroidered in lyric tones of bluegreens, orange and lavender in vertical lines on the bodice and around the key-hole neckline. And still another relies for color on its woven stripes—pink, lavender, white—in a tailored shirt design. A belted yellow print is embroidered in blue.

The selection from India includes long dresses, as well, such as the white in a heavy cotton stitched in multiple colors at the yoke, at the cuff of the short sleeve and again in a wide band around the hem. ($24) Several are woven plaids, such as a pink-and-white plaid design with the cross-over bodice in a solid pink.

There's elastic smocking from shoulder to waist in deceptively demure little print dresses of India cotton prints. A yellow and gold print outlined in black features long slim sleeves and a marvelously full skirt about top-of-the-knee length ($11.98) Other dresses in two tone cotton prints are equally slim and young.

Bailey's India collection includes a number of long skirts, several of which are deeply shirred at the waist and feature alternate panels of complementary prints ending in a deep, deep ruffle. There are some long skirts with the patch print design ($9.98) and, in a rough white cotton, a long skirt buttoned by brown pegs. ($13.98) Wear with it a halter top of India cotton from Bailey's selection. ($3.98)

Bryce won his first gold medal at age 5, winning the 10 and under race held each week by the Vail Ski School. He plans to accompany his sister Lise, 13, (who came home from Aspen with her leg in a cast rather than a hoped-for medal) to summer ski racing camp this June in Montana.

ART

THE SPRING SCENE

At Gallery of Fine Art. Frank Stout is the head of the art department at Marlboro College in Vermont. This, unfortunately, is the only biographical information available about an artist whose works demand that we know more about him, his life, and his own feelings about his art.

The current display at the Princeton Gallery of Fine Art is an unusual collection of realistic figure paintings. Behind an amusing, painterly collection of representational oils, including some nostalgia pieces and some of more immediate subject matter, is the presence of Stout's sad, poetic comment on his fellow man. Merrymakers, musicians, a faded but beautiful film star, and a collection of almost contemporary genre are depicted with a benevolent sense of humor.

However, behind genial faces and merrymaking smiles are revealed the hollow men and women of Frank Stout's artistic vision. What poets and novelists have said, often in thousands of words, emanates from seemingly innocuous portrayals of life as it is (was, might have been?) and is succinctly and skillfully expressed in a colorful and visually pleasing manner.

Technical Skill. Stout uses old photographs as his initial inspiration. Innocent pastimes, celebrities, portraits and large groupings of people are all placed on their canvasses with technical skill. He manages to use his color not only to please but to reinforce the atmosphere with a muted softness.

Stout's painterly technique employs artful combinations of overpainting and glazes to intensify the emotional depth of his figures. Rich tones and a visual mellowness emanate from the depths of his subjects thru brush strokes applied with a firm but sparing hand.

Stout creates an additional statement beneath his portrayal of the rhythms of daily life. There is, behind the faces and the forms an emptiness, a sadness and sometimes a futility whose presentation has often been left to poets and surrealists but now can be included within the domain of the realist.

At Gallery 100. Architectural studies and fine art are a difficult marriage. The geometric disciplines and self contained forms of buildings are difficult to portray well and relate simultaneously to landscape without some loss of aesthetic effect or a mechanical approach.

The problems of architecture as landscape and art are nicely resolved by Elizabeth Wadleigh Leary in her current display, "Portrait of a Barn". In this series the artist has taken as her subject a single Pennsylvania barn.

She has portrayed it from several points of view, in varying light and in different relationships to it surroundings. Ms. Leary maintains the structural essence of her subject and creates a multi-faceted aesthetic experience. Color, texture, silhouette and contrasting forms are all used exceptionally well to create a richness and softness despite the hard surfaces of the subject.

Separate Identities. Although the paintings are of a single barn, each one provies an individual perspective of form, light and color that differs so completely from its companions that each painting has a definite identity. Structural shapes, patterns created by shadow and pieces of background landscape are well formed and often intricately detailed and patterned. The resulting surface variety stimulates the viewer with its many elements while evoking a feeling of bucolic harmony.

Ms. Leary's colors are all muted, with an earthy palette predominating. However, she maintains a clarity and a glow by judicious contrasts and the spotting of light tones against dark.

Art In Princeton

The hyper realism used by this artist is enhanced and tempered by the poetic quality created by the skillful combinations and permutations of the many elements in the series.

At the Tar Pot. During his life, Winslow Homer spent much of his artistic energy as an illustrator for popular journals. The printing processes of the 19th century were considerably more primitive than those of today, and the illustrations of that era were hand-engraved on wooden blocks before they were printed. Homer would draw upon his block and skilled artisans and craftsmen then rendered the works that were to grace the pages of such journals as "Harper's Weekly," "Our Young Life" "Every Saturday" and other publications.

While the original runs were fairly large, only a small number survive and many fine examples of Homer's work are on display at the Tar Pot. His skill at drawing, composing and his ability to capture the essence of the moment is as strong in these black and white line pieces as in his paintings. Bucolic days and merry afternoons populated by children, young men and delicate ladies are among the very charming records of another era.

At the Eye for Art Paintings by Naomi Policoff are featured for April at the Eye for Art. Mrs. Policoff's more recent works are non-objective, concentrating heavily on organic and linear rythms. Oils and water colors express similar artistic aims, with occasional ventures into more solid structural works.

Included in the display are some representational works in several media displaying both figure paintings and still life. In all the work color is pleasantly combined, with subtle palette and competent brushwork.

At the Artisan. Jaci Krasner specializes in depicting simplified figurative forms. She does this in both acrylic and carved driftwood pieces.

The paintings are usually impasto and often combined with background collage effects. The carvings reflect the same feeling about the human form but allow wood textures, wood tones and the nature of the carved line to contribute to the overall effect.

- Helen Schwartz

PHOTOGRAPHY ON VIEW

At 185 Nassau "Photographic Images," a one-man exhibit of 70 black-and-white prints by a senior majoring in art at Princeton University, is currently being featured in the exhibition gallery of the Photo Laboratory in the Creative and Visual Arts Building, 185 Nassau Street.

The work of Edward K. White '73, Ocean City, Md., dates to 1964 and comprises, in part, a chronological exhibition and, in part, a series of "image pairs" taken during the summer and fall of 1972.

Open to the public without charge, the show continues through April 22 and may be viewed between 2 and 5 Monday through Friday, 10 to 2 on Saturdays, and from 8 to 11 evenings, Monday through Saturday. Much of the work centers on Ocean City, during and after "the season," but other prints show the Delaware River, Keyser, W. Va., Princeton, New York City, and other locations in Maryland, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

AT GALLERY 100: Elizabeth Leary presents an unusual multiple depiction of the various geometric shapes inherent in an old local barn. Her strong acrylics continue as the feature show at Gallery 199 through this month.

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Brought to you
By John Bernard

Did you know that a man can be the winning pitcher in a baseball game even though he never threw a pitch to a batter! . . . How is this possible! . . . This actually happened once in a minor league game . . . A relief hurler came into the game with two out in the top of the 9th . . . Before throwing a pitch to the plate, he picked the runner off first base retiring the side . . . Then, his team scored the winning run in the last of the 9th, and so he was the winning pitcher.

One of the oddest things that ever happened in a major golf tournament happened to pro golfer Tony Jacklin . . . He was playing in a tournament some years ago and hit a 300-yard long shot that landed right in a spectator's pocket — without any injury to the spectator!

• • • • •

Did you ever wonder what was the smallest crowd ever to see a major league baseball game! The record low was set back in 1884 in a National League game at Chicago. Official paid attendance at that game — 12.

I bet you didn't know . . . that the cost of building a house is up about 9% over last year. Maybe you should check the amount of fire insurance on your dwelling. Are you aware of the lumber shortage in the U.S.!

BALL TEAM BUSY

Doubleheader Saturday. If this wet spring does not interfere with schedule commitments, Princeton's baseball team will play eight games in 11 days. After this Wednesday's contest against Rutgers on Clarke Field, the Tigers go to New York Saturday for their second league double header on the road, playing Columbia at Baker Field.

They are at home Monday against Rutgers, travel to Villanova Tuesday, entertain Cornell Friday and take on Army in a twin bill here Saturday. So far this season, the rain has washed out only last Wednesday's contest with Seton Hall at South Orange.

In its first three games after the disastrous Florida trip, the Orange and Black blended good pitching with fair hitting to win twice. Last Friday, Bob Harding was breezing along on a 4-0 shutout when bases on balls and errors proved his undoing. Manhattan moving into a 5-4 lead.

Steve Crandall replaced Harding and held the visitors scoreless for the final three rounds while his mates pushed over three runs for a 7-5 victory. Captain Pete Korsan and sophomore Dave Mistretta both provided key hits.

At Philadelphia Saturday, Gene Shue, who quarterbacked Penn to victory in football over Princeton last October, pitched the Quakers to a 3-1 triumph. Sophomore Scott McHenry allowed only three hits and fanned seven, but was bothered by wildness and lack of support at the plate. Two of the visitors runs crossed on the same wild pitch.

Randy Blevins, hobbled by arthritis so badly that he takes cortisone shots before pitching, won the second game, 8 to 3, with the aid of relief from Bill Coppedge. Blevins had a no hitter going into the sixth inning.

Monday afternoon saw the Tigers take their third in four starts since returning home when they produced an easy 7-1 victory over Fordham on Clarke Field. Five unearned runs as early as the second inning made life a breeze for Coppedge, who scattered six hits and would have had a shutout save for a run that scored on a passed ball.

Two Ram errors and three walks salted in among a pair of Princeton hits gave Princeton its five runs. Big Ken Beytin, whose hitting has been approaching his 1972 form in the past week, got three hits, one of them a double, and scored twice to lead the Tiger attack.

IVY OPENER WEDNESDAY

For Tiger Lacrosse Team. Hoping for an upturn in its Ivy fortunes, Princeton's lacrosse team will play host to Brown next Wednesday at 3:30 on Finney Field. The Bruins have dominated the rivalry in recent years, and a Tiger triumph will be a big step forward.

Navy's powerful mid-shipmen coasted to a 19-4 triumph here Saturday, after being held to a 2-2 tie in the first 15 minutes. A goal a minute pace in the first three minutes of the second quarter then sent the visitors on their way.

Tuesday's contest against Washington and Lee will be followed by a trip Saturday to Long Island to face Hofstra.

NINE RACES ON LAKE

Major Program Saturday. Twenty seven crews representing colleges from Massachusetts to Maryland will row on Carnegie Lake Saturday afternoon. The program is unusually large because the Raritan River's tides necessitate another course for Rutgers, Yale and Northeastern, which will row here after Princeton and Navy have finished.

Starting at 2:45, and proceeding at approximately 15-minute intervals until 5:30, a total of nine races will be held. All varsity events will involve eight-oared shells, but where manpower shortages exist, fours will row. Every race will be contested over the Olympic distance of 2,000 meters.

Princeton, Navy adn Rutgers 150-lb. crew will open the day's activities. Navy and Princeton heavyweight shells will follow, with the transplanted regatta from New Brunswick concluding the day's program. The Navy-Princeton varsity event is set for 4 p.m., while the Rutgers-Northeastern-Yale race is scheduled for 5:40.

The Tigers rowed on the lake last Saturday morning, too, even though the race with Rutgers had originally been scheduled for the Raritan. Flood conditions there necessitated a switch to Carnegie.

The Scarlet took all three races, sweeping the river against Princeton for the first time in eight years. The Rutgers varsity, heavier then the Tigers by ten pounds per man, led all the way and won by half a length. The winners' time was 6:31.4, with Princeton clocked at 6:33.

COACHES SWAP JOBS

In Princeton Hockey. Not wholly without advance indication, Bill Quackenbush has been replaced as Princeton's hockey coach. His last four years here have found Tiger teams far below the .500 mark, and after a winning season in his first winter, his overall record sagged to 35-105-2.

What is surprising about his departure from the top spot is that he will now coach the freshmen, and the freshman coach of a year's standing has been named as his replacement. Twenty-seven year old Jack Semler, named freshman coach here last summer when his predecessor, Paul Lufkin, got the varsity assignment at Yale, was an assistant at Vermont before coming to Princeton. He captained the Green Mountain state team in 1968.

Under Semler's guidance, the Class of 1976 won 15 of 20 games, the largest number of victories a freshman team at Princeton has ever recorded. He will accompany a larger-than-usual number of good skaters to the varsity.

Following the arrival of Director of Athletics Royce Flippin on the Princeton scene and the departure of football coach Jake McCandless, there had been considerable speculation that Quackenbush might be replaced, as Princeton hockey finished with a string of eight straight losses and a 5-18 mark. The decision was relatively prompt after the end of the season in early March, and Semler was the only candidate considered.

In addition to coaching the freshmen, Quackenbush will assume direction of Baker Rink, which is among the busiest facilities on campus from October until mid-March. He will remain as coach of the varsity golf team.

BARISICH, BROWN NAMED

Share Poe Cup. Carl Barisich, defensive tackle and Bill Brown, offensive guard, were named co-winners of the John Prentiss Poe Cup, Princeton University's highest football award. The two seniors received their trophies Tuesday from Conch Bob Casciola at the team's annual banquet, postponed from an earlier date following the change in coaching staff.

Sharing the spotlight with Barisich and Brown were defensive back Barry Richardson, who received the Charles W. Caldwell Trophy for "greatest improvement in football at Princeton", and outgoing captain Mike Kincaid, recipient of the Dr. Harry R. McPhee Award for "demonstrated durability and fortitude". John Gorrell Jr., starting center on the Tiger freshman team last fall, was presented with the Donald B. Lourie Award for "ability, conduct and attitude."

Barisich, a draft selection of the Cleveland Browns and the first Princetonian in 21 years to play in a post-season football game, is expected to sign with the Browns.

ball game when he saw action in annual North-South Shrine Game in Miami, overcame a knee injury which sidelined him for his entire junior season to become one of the top defensive tackles in the nation. The 6-4, 250-pound tackle was a unanimous All-Ivy pick by the League's coaches, and an All-East choice by both the Associated Press and Eastern College Athletic Conference.

Brown, a highly-regarded offensive tackle for two seasons before moving to guard last fall, was a starter in all 27 of his varsity games at Princeton. Called by his coaches "perhaps the best offensive lineman we've had since World War II," the 6-2, 225-pound lineman earned high grades week after week for his technical blocking excellence. As a senior, Brown was voted by the league coaches to the All-Ivy team at guard.

A starter for two seasons at the demanding "Rover Back" position, Richardson distinguished himself for his play diagnosis and expecially for his sure tackling ability. As a senior, he picked off one enemy pass and accounted for 32 tackles while assisting on 22 more. His block of a conversion attempt by Rutgers enabled Princeton to score a 7-6 upset victory.

Kincaid made a successful switch from linebacker to defensive end early in his junior year and quickly established himself among the league's top performers. Last year, he made the Coaches All-Ivy second unit and this year was elevated to the first team. During his senior season, the Tiger captain chalked up 41 individual tackles and led the team with three fumble recoveries.

Gorrel was cited by Freshman Coach Artie Williams as "an inspirational type of player who helped to bring out the best in his team mates." He is expected to be a strong candidate for the vacant center slot on next year's varsity.

FOOTBALL STAFF GROWS

Defensive Coordinator Named. John Petercuskie, defensive coordinator at Boston College for the past four years, has been named to the staff of Princeton's head football coach, Bob Casciola. Announcement of Petercuskie's appointment was made by Director of Athletics Royce N. Flippin, Jr.

A coaching colleague of Casciola from 1966 through 1968 when both served at Dartmouth under Bob Blackman, Petercuskie will be the Tigers' defensive coach with primary responsibility for the line. His decision to come here is considered a major plus for the Tigers — particularly in New England, where he is held in high regard.

The Old Forge, Pa. native is a 1950 graduate of East Stroudsburg State College, where he captained the football team and won All-Pennsylvania honors at guard. Prior to entering East Stroudsburg, Petercuskie served in the Marine Corps and saw action on Okinawa during World War II.

He began his coaching career at Old Forge High School

HOMECOMING: Len Rivers, a PHS graduate in the Class of 1951, has been named to Bob Casciola's football staff at Princeton, following association for three seasons with Casciola at the University of Connecticut. A native of Princeton, Rivers is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Rivers, 21 Green Street.

in 1951 and two years later moved to Neshaminy High School in Langhorne, Pa. as an assistant. In 1960, he became Neshaminy's head coach and over the next six seasons directed his teams to a phenomenal record of 59 victories and five ties in 65 games. His teams won the Lower Bucks County League title every year during his tenure at Neshaminy and three times were winners fo the Big Six Eastern Conference. He was named "Coach of the Year" in the Philadelphia area on several occasions.

Petercuskie and his wife, Dorothy, are the parents of three sons, John Jr., a senior at Boston College; Jerry, a sophomore at Boston College; and Gary, a high school sophomore.

The addition of Petercuskie leaves Casciola with one vacancy to be filled, that of offensive backfield coach. Recently appointed Len Rivers and Al Wilson join varsity holdovers Warren Harris and Gary Fallon on the Tigers' revamped staff.

PHS TRACKMEN LOSE

To Bridgewater, 79-52. In a cold and windy afternoon, Bridgewater Raritan West High School swept the 440 and piled up sufficient firsts Friday to defeat visiting Princeton High track team, 79-52. Lou Drury was the top point-getter for PHS, taking second in the shot put, discus and 100-yard dash for nine points.

The Little Tigers, who have a number of promising sophomores and freshmen on the squad, will try to draw even Thursday at the expense of Steinert. The meet will be held at the Spartan's superb track, starting at 3:45. Monday, at 3:45, in their first home meet, the Little Tigers will entertain powerful Hamilton.

"We didn't do too badly," observed PHS coach Larry Ivan. "Bridgewater has a real fine team. A few points here and there and we would have been up in the high 60s and it would have been close."

PHS placed first and second in the mile, Steve Woodside being clocked in 4:45.5 and Bill Frazier in 4:51, and Mike Coda took the 880 in 2:08. Steve Roderick (2:10) was second. Co-captain Craig Carlton finished second in the 180-yard low hurdles with a time of 22.4 and had to settle for second in the highs when he hit the second hurdle from the end and went down on both hands. His time was 17.3. "He was leading all the way until that happened," sighed Ivan.

In the two mile, a strong event for PHS, Pete Nichols captured first place with 10:15.7 and Mark Anderson a third in 11:07. Freshman Billy Hunt (11:25) and sophomore Peter Schwartz (11:39) also ran in the event. Another freshman, Fred Berkelhammer, who Ivan reported "has come along tremendously," took a second in the high jump with a leap of 5-6.

Richard Guzy placed second in the javelin with a toss of 144-2½ (Dave Gilbert was third) and Mark McLean vaulted 10-6 for a second in the pole vault (Bill Alpert was third). McLean also finished third in the long jump with a 17-2 effort.

Ivan reported that he was a little disappointed in the shot put where Bill Alexander fouled on his first two throws and had to settle for a third place with 44-6. Ivan said that both were longer than the winning toss. Drury's marks in the shot and discus were 45-10 and 130-11½.

Princeton's mile relay team of Martin Willard, Ron Campbell, Jon Cogan and Mike White ran a 3:42.2 mile compared to Bridgewater's 3:37.

Ivan also stated that sophomore Larry Cypress ran a "nice race" in the 220 where he finished third in 24.6 — one-tenth of a second off the second place finisher. In the 100, there was a dispute over third place — two officials placing Cypress third and two saying him in fourth place. A fifth official awarded third to Bridgewater — another one of those "little things" that Ivan said could have made the match closer than it was.

PHS NETMEN UNDER WAY

Open With 4-1 Victory. The faces may change but the result is the same: the Princeton High School tennis team keeps winning.

Last week, the Little Tiger team, 18-1 last year and Group 3 state champions, opened its season in impressive fashion with a 4-1 victory over Notre Dame.

PHS will play Lawrence at home Friday and Hopewell Valley on Monday, both matches starting at 3:45. The scheduled opener with New Brunswick was cancelled because of rain and will not be replayed.

Nick Van de Walle, a sophomore, the number two singles player, and senior Robbie McDougal, number three singles, each won easy victories. Van de Walle won, 6-0, 6-1, and McDougal likewise dropped only one set, winning, 6-1, 6-0.

Veteran Randy Thomas teamed with junior David Loy, an Australian here for one year, to win the first doubles, 6-4, 6-2, while a pair of freshmen, Dan Shulman and Dan Aronovich won the number two doubles, 6-1, 6-2. Princeton's lone setback came in the number one singles match where Richard Broad lost, 4-6, 2-6.

"We'll be strong but not as strong as last year," commented coach Bill Humes after the match. Humes lost all three singles players with the graduation of Michel Glouchevitch, and Bill Schmidt, who are now members of the Swarthmore team, and Danny Thompson, now playing for Haverford.

FROM DOWN UNDER: In a case of the rich getting richer, David Loy of Sydney, Australia, will join the Princeton High School tennis team this spring, adding to the seemingly inexhaustible supply of talent associated with PHS net teams.

A native of Sydney, Australia, Loy is attending PHS for a year while his father writes a book at Princeton Theological Seminary. He reported that he has played tennis for some five years in Australia. Both he and Thomas can play singles, said Humes, who added that all five of his first players are interchangeable.

League Organized. A formal Mercer County League has been formed this year in tennis which means that some of Princeton's traditional opponents such as Somerville, Millburn and Episcopal were dropped so that the Little Tigers twice. They are Notcanplay can play each league member Trenton, Lawrence, Hopewell Valley and Ewing.

Humes predicted that probably the toughest competition for his Little Tigers will come from Christian Brothers Academy and rival Princeton Day School. In all, the team will play 15 dual matches this year.

PHS IS SURPRISED

By Metuchen in Tennis. The Princeton High School tennis team was surprised by visiting Metuchen Monday, 3½-1½, the first regular season loss suffered by the Little Tigers in three years. Metuchen is 3-0.

Princeton's lone bright spot amidst all the gloom was a 6-0, 6-1 win by its number two doubles team of freshmen Dan Aronovic and Dan Shulman. The shocker for PHS coach Bill Humes was the 6-4, 6-2 loss suffered by his number one doubles pair, Randy Thomas and Nick Van de-Walle. "I can't understand it," he said. "My problem is going to be getting a number one doubles team together."

"I have to find more continuity," said Humes, who in the early going has been forced to use singles players in doubles action.

The key match, in Humes' opinion, was the number three singles, where Robbie McDougald squandered a 5-3 lead in the second set after taking the first, 7-5. His opponent, Tom Dunn, came on to win the second set, 7-5, and the match when he took the third, 6-2.

That sealed the Metuchen victory because Dick Broad of PHS has lost his number one singles match, 6-4, 6-2, earlier.

David Loy of Australia and Marc Zimmerman of Metuchen battled to a standoff in the number two singles match. Loy won the first set, 7-5. The second was all even at 12-12 when both coaches agreed to decide it with a 12-point tie breaker. The tie-breaker went to 5-5 before Zimmerman won it, 7-5, to halve the match.

Humes left shaking his head but convinced his team could avenge the setback to Metuchen in a re-match. Trouble is, this is the only shot PHS will get at the upstate school, which PHS stopped 4-1 in its opener last year.

HUN NINE WINS FIRST

Three Games Next Week. The Hun School baseball team, which coach Bill McQuade has said will need a lot of luck to repeat as Penn-Jersey League champions, didn't need any help from the Lady in its opener Friday with Princeton Day School.

Hun batters banged out 10 hits including two each from Dave Pone, Tony Trani and Scott Johnson, and Paul Creamer limited PDS to four hits and struck out six as Hun triumphed, 5-2. "It was a good one to start off with," commented McQuade. "I'll take that first win any time."

McQuade, who has had to replace his entire infield and two-thirds of his outfield, will find out in a hurry if Hun is capable of making a run for its third league championship. It will play three games in four days, starting with George School here Friday (3:30), powerful Ewing High School at home Saturday (2 p.m.) and Peddie Monday in Hightstown. In addition, Hun was scheduled to meet Pennington School this Wednesday afternoon in Pennington.

In toppling PDS, Hun scored three runs in the second inning and two more in the sixth. Dave Clark and Creamer hit doubles for the victors. Creamer lost his shutout in the final inning when the Panthers scored their only run, which was unearned. A dropped fly ball--Hun's only error in the contest and a passed ball accounted for the run.

McQuade, who reported that he had not even picked a starting lineup the day before the game, started Biff Hollowell at first, sophomore Lonnie Cathel at second ("he's going to be a good one"); Trani at short and Johnson at third. Bob McHugh was in left field, Pone in center and Clark in right. Veteran Greg PDS LACROSSE CO-CAPTAINS — Leading the Princeton Day School lacrosse team into action Wednesday in its home opener against Edison High School are co-captains Peter Moore (left) and David Barach. Moore is a midfielder, Barach an attackman who doubles as a goaltender.

Rafalski started his third year behind the plate.

SEASON UNDER WAY

For PDS Lacrosse Team. Princeton Day School lacrosse coach Chuck Simpson's 1973 team numbers more freshmen than upperclassmen; and that statistic alone marks it a rebuilding year, but the team isn't as green as it might seem.

The only seniors on the squad are the co-captains, attackman-goalie David Barach and middie Peter Moore, each in his fourth year on the team. Barach, who saw little goaltending duty as back-up to all-state Andy Houston in past years, may share the task equally this year with freshman Jeb Burns.

None of the three juniors on the team saw action last year. Middie Cam Ferrante was out with a knee injury and middie-defenseman Ted Dowey lost most of the season with a foot injury. John Bragg, another midfielder, is a newcomer, having played two years of high school lacrosse in Maryland.

The seven sophomores on the Panther squad were all well tested last year. Defensemen Steve Packard and Doug Robinson were alternate starters in 1972. This year they team with Jay Trubee, a freshman who started last year on the PDS junior team. A second freshman, Scott Hiuston, will see a lot of defensive action.

When Barach is in the goal, the attack will be all sophomores and freshmen. Sophs Rick Gordon and Jack Bonini and freshmen Tom Moore, Carl Erdman, Dave O'Connor and Scott MacDonald round out the attack.

Simpson will field at least three midfields of equal strength, although assignments are presently indefinite. Experience belongs to Cam Ferrante and his fleet-footed brother, Gray, a sophomore, and to Moore, Bragg, Ted Dowey and Peter Chalverus.

Freshman midfielders, some with two years of junior experience, are Steve Judge, John Meredith, Bill Erdman, Peter Taggart, Rick Olsson and Tom Tate.

The Panthers were scheduled to open their season this Wednesday against Edison High School at home. A contest against George School is scheduled for Friday at 3:30 at home.

The varsity plays a fourteen game schedule, and this year, because of the number of freshmen available, Simpson has scheduled five freshman games as well.

SWIM MEDALS PILE UP

For Guy Dorgan. Twelve-year-old Guy Dorgan of Princeton, won four more medals last week at the Cherry Blossom Age Group Swim Meet in Silver Spring.

Guy's best performance was in the 11-12 200-yard freestyle where he placed second with a 2:04.7. He also took third in the 100-yard butterfly in 1:06.4, fourth in the 50-yard free in 26.4 and fourth in the 100-yard free in 58.4. Guy, swimming unattached, is coached by Bill Palmer.

PHS BLANKED AGAIN

By St Anthony's, 5-0. It was so cold Tuesday that a puck would have been more appropriate than a baseball.

As it was, the performance of the Little Tiger baseball team against visiting St. Anthony's (1-1-1) did little to warm the heart of coach Don Blankenbush. His team lost its second straight, 2-0. Frigid weather or not, Blankenbush cannot overlook the fact that after two games the Little Tigers have (1) yet to score a single run and (2) have banged out a total of four hits.

PHS was again limited to a pair of hits by Iron Mike hurler Dom Piccolella. First baseman Steve Kopp hit a liner between third and short in the second inning for one and Jeff Galle, who has two of Princeton's four hits this season, hit safely in the sixth.

Freddie Wilson advanced as far as third for the losers in the fourth but the next batter struck out to end Princeton's only threat. Piccolella wiffed seven.

So the onus is on PHS to win soon or face the specter of another losing season. PHS will play at Steinert Thursday afternoon at 3:45 and then remain idle for a week until meeting Notre Dame away the following Thursday.

Through the first three innings in Tuesday's game, Kopp's was the only hit. Wray Blattner and Mike Carlucci both walked to start the third inning but Piccolella was able to retire the next three in order.

PDS BASEBALL COACH: Tom DeVito, who has achieved a large measure of success as both a player at Trenton State and a coach at St. Anthony's, will try to produce the same results as the new coach of the Princeton Day baseball team. Panthers lost their opener last week to Hun, 5-1.

In the fourth, PHS starter Bobby King, who survived a shaky first inning, lost control. He started by walking Piccolella. "It's tough to lose that first batter," commented Blankenbush from the bench. He proved to be a prophet.

Carlucci, however, roved deep in the hole at short to throw out the next batter on a fine play. King walked the next man. Then when Carlucci had to rush a topped grounder on the next play his hurried throw to first pulled Kopp off the bag. Piccolella scoring the game's first win.

When King walked Jeff Plunkett, the bases were loaded. Blankenbush tried to settle him down with a conference at the mound, but when King proceeded to walk the next batter on four pitches, none of which was near the plate, to force in the second run, Blankenbush brought in Galle from left field in relief. Before Galle was able to retire the side, the visitors had pushed two more runs across. They added another in the seventh.

For St. Anthony it was its first victory after tying Bishop Egan and losing to Lawrenceville.

HOW SWEET IT IS

Lacrosse Team Wins Opener. When the Princeton High School lacrosse team defeated home town Clinton in its opener Friday, 8-3, it left the Little Tigers with a 1-0 record. The last time that's happened.... well, it has never happened since PHS took up the sport.

It was sweet revenge for PHS, which lost last year, 12-2, to Clinton, which has basically the same team back. "We really played a nice game," agreed coach Marvin Trotman. "The kids worked together as a unit instead of trying to do it all alone."

Friday, the Blue and White will play Edison here at 3:30 on the PHS football field, and on Monday the team will be at Lawrenceville.

This Wednesday afternoon, PHS was scheduled to oppose powerful Montclair here at 3:30.

PHS, in winning, received a tremendous performance from goalie Keith Rendall, who had 15 saves. Sophomore Mace Muhrmann and middy Jim Miller each scored twice for PHS, while Ron Campbell, Bob Weisbecker, Mark Campbell and Bob McCluskey added single goals.

Standouts on defense were Alex Kinnan, co-captain John McCulloch and Guy Mendelson. Trotman also singled out Mark Solomun, up from the jayvees, who "really played a nice game" as a midfielder.

After the home team opened the scoring, Ron Campbell's goal tied it and then PHS went ahead, 2-1, on a goal by Muhrmann. Clinton tied it again and led 3-2 at the half.

The second half, however, was all Princeton as the Little Tigers kept clearing the ball effectively, did not lose a single face off, and controlled the play.

"It's the first year we've ever been 1-0. It's a great way to start," said Trotman.

J.P. STEVENS EDGED

By PHS Girls Track Team. The Princeton girls track team won an exciting meet with J.P. Stevens Monday, edging the visitors, 58-56, to raise its won-lost record to 2-0.

Coach Lamont Fletcher's Blue and White team will travel to Pennsbury, Pa. Friday afternoon and then remain idle until April 24 when it hosts Mater Dei.

With two events remaining the discus and long jump the score was tied. Stevens captured second and third in both events for eight points but still lost the meet when Debbie Brooks of PHS won the discus with a toss of 74-3 and Karen Winn grabbed the long jump with a leap of 14-3.

Debbie also won the shot (27-7½) and Karen took the 440 (65.3) to emerge as the only double winners for PHS.

"For a while I felt like Napoleon at Waterloo," commented Fletcher. "At one point they had us down 34-20. I'm afraid I took them too lightly," added Fletcher who said that he had shuffled his girls around "to see what they could do" and almost lost the match in the process.

Gracie McEwen got off a "tremendous throw" of 90 feet to win the javelin, while Cathy Woodbridge ran an impressive 440 leg of 63.8 in the medley relay which PHS won. Others competing were Gracie McEwen, Mary Lou Kruger and Dini Bullock. The Little Tigerettes also won the 440 relay but lost the 880 relay as well as the 100 and 220 dashes.

QUICK ANSWER DUE

On PDS Nine's Ability. A combination of bad weather and a tough schedule early in the season will provide a quick answer as to the relative strength of the Princeton Day baseball team this year.

Rain has limited practice for the young team, which, having already lost to Hun last week, must now face the likes of Pennington, Lawrenceville and Germantown Friends in the next seven days. A victory over any one of them would be much to the credit of the Blue and White.

In his first year, coach Tom DeVito faces a strong challenge in trying to put together a squad able to play seven innings of steady ball. This means eliminating costly errors in the field, especially with men on base, and producing more hits at bat, also with men on base.

In the team's 5-1 loss to Hun, throwing errors led to three Hun runs in the second inning, and the visitors never needed the two insurance runs they scored in the fifth.

PDS batters could only produce four hits, and only one run when they managed to load the bases with none out in the final inning. And that was set up by a Hun fielding error and scored on a passed ball.

The Panthers will meet Pennington away at 3:30 Friday, Lawrenceville at home, the following day at 2:30, and Germantown Friends, next Wednesday at home at 3:30. PDS and Germantown have been the front runners for the

GEDDES IS HONORED

For 50 Years at Grover Lumber. William J. P. Geddes, 165 Jefferson Road, who joined Grover Lumber Company in 1923 as a bookkeeper and worked his way up to president, was honored by the company at a dinner last week at the Nassau Inn for half a century of service.

Born in Rhayada, Wales, Mr. Geddes came to school in this country attending the Hardwick Academy, Hardwick, Vt. He then spent four years at Rider College night school studying accounting and business law.

Mr. Geddes was named vice-president of Grover Lumber in 1950, and president in 1970.

Grover & Gulick Lumber was founded by John B. Grover and John H. R. Gulick in 1922. After the death of Mr. Gulick in 1950, the firm's name was changed to Grover Lumber and incorporated.

SALES, EARNINGS RISE

At Base Ten Systems. Base Ten Systems, Inc, earned a profit of $21,975, or $.07 a share (which included an extraordinary gain of $5,300, or $.02 a share), on sales of $1,553,178 for the year ended December 31. These record results compare to earnings of $42,301, or $.14 a share (which included extra-ordinary gains of $50,160, or $.16 a share), on sales of $1,024 391, for the prior year's period.

In making the announcement, Myles M. Kranzler, president said, "We estimate sales advancing to approximately $2,500,000 for the current year. Since we do not estimate a corresponding increase in costs, we expect a substantial increase in profits. We are basing this projection on our current backlog of $2,000,000, and ou high current level of contract bids for prospective customers."

Mr Kranzler noted that the company has established a manufacturing facility in England. In addition to enabling the company to fulfill a major European contract, the production unit will place the company in a position to bid on significant foreign contracts.

Base Ten Systems designs, develops and manufactures digital telemetry equipment.

EARNING REPORTS DUE

If You Get Social Security. Those who received one or more retirement or survivors checks from social security and earned more than $1,680 in 1972 must submit an annual report of their earnings to social security by Monday, according to Jule Weining, social security assistant district manager in Trenton.

"The annual report shows how much was earned in wages and self-employment income last year by people who also get social security payments — and how much they expect to earn this year," Mr Weining said.

"You could receive your full social security payment if you earned $1,680 or less in 1972," he said. "And no matter how much you earned for the year, you could be paid your full social security benefits for any month you earned $140 or less as an employee and did not do substantial work in your own business.

"In 1973," Mr. Weining noted, "you can get your full social security payment if you earn $2,100 or less. Or, no matter how much you earn for the year, you can be paid your full social security benefits for any month you earn $175 or less and do not do substantial work in your own business."

The annual earnings report should not include income from interest, dividends, other retirement plans, rent, or sale of real or personal property (unless the income is received by a real estate dealer). "The report is used to determine whether or not people were paid the correct amount of social security benefits last year," Mr. Weining said. "It's also used to adjust their monthly payments for this year according to their estimated earnings."

Those who were over 72 during all months of 1972 do not need to make an annual earnings report, Mr. Weining said. There are penalties for filing late, unless good cause can be shown. "A penalty means a loss of benefits," Mr. Weining said.

Those who receive social security checks and have questions about the annual report or need a reporting form can call any social security office. The number is 396-3545.

News Of The CHURCHES

TRINITY REPORTS

On Master Plan Response. The Long Range Master Plan for Trinity Episcopal Church will be revised in the light of costs and priorities," church leaders announced this week in a letter to the parish.

"It would be our hope that we could have for your consideration in the Fall a modified Master Plan along with our recommendations as to priorities and how we might best phase the accomplishment of such a Plan over a period of years," the report said. The signers were Christopher R. P. Rodgers, senior warden; Robert J. Shaw, junior warden; A. Perry Morgan Jr., chairman of the Long Range Planning Committee, and Rev. James R. Whittemore, rector.

Brock Brower's analysis of the questionnaires completed by parishioners show that 103 of the 137 answers agree that the program needs outlined in the plan are consistent with personal objectives; 33 felt they are not consistent; one individual had no opinion.

"It is interesting to note, however, that the negative votes were very evenly divided between people who felt that the parish was doing too little in terms of outreach, and those who felt that we were doing too much," the progress report states.

"When we got to whether the plan proposals were consistent with the program needs, the answers were 84 yes, 44 no The nos translated most predominantly into an opinion that the proposals were too ambitious."

The report states that Christian Education and parish life involve the most urgent facility needs, according to the questionnaires, with the counseling service also a high priority as are the rearrangement of the church nave and Christian outreach. Size, location and compatability of a Parish Life Center with the current church structures are in need of re-thinking, the questionnaires also reveal.

"Last, but by no means least, the Vestry must recognize the parish's very real concern for, and need to, reduce the overall cost."

Trinity's Master Plan, a $1.5 million proposal submitted to the parish early in February, is the result of a two and one-half year study by the committee in conjunction with the vestry and the five standing committees of the church.

TEN AWARDS WON

By Princeton Swimmers. Members of the Princeton Aquatic Association journeyed to Norwalk on Saturday and recorded some of their best times of the season.

Jim Pendergrass, swimming in the 50-54 age group, won two firsts, in the 200-yard breaststroke (3:21.3) and 50-yard breaststroke (39.5). He also took a second place in the 200-yard freestyle (2:35.5) and another in the 50-yard butterfly (35.9). In the 35-39 age bracket, John Ferguson swam in his first meet of the season, placing second in the 200-yard breaststroke with 3:40.5 and third in the 50-yard free with 32.1.

Two former Princeton University swimmers also took part in the action. Shaving almost one second off his previous best time, Ed Breisacher placed second in a fast 50-yard freestyle heat in 25.3. He also sprinted to easy wins in the 200-yard freestyle (2:13.5) and 100-yard freestyle (57.4). Sandy Thatcher's second place (36.9) in the 50-yard backstroke completed a fine day for the Princeton Masters swimmers.

The Norwalk meet served as a major tune-up for the teams that will be competing in the East Coast Masters Invitational to be held at Dillon Pool on May 4 and 5.

This charming older two story colonial has a big country kitchen with the atmosphere of rustic beams and the easy living of early American. The living room, dining room, den and possibility of a downstairs powder room spell modern colonial convenience. Upstairs, are four truly colonial bedrooms and a modern bath. In the attic are wide plank loose floorboards for a worthwhile restoration. Come and see. $38,900

Our turn of the century townhouse in Princeton is within walking distance of the University, shopping, schools and almost everything. Fleur de lis leaded windows in the foyer, living room with massive sliding chestnut doors, dining room with leaded window, and turn of the century kitchen. Upstairs, are four bedrooms, foyer and bath on the second floor, and a third floor studio room. Full basement obviously built with old Princeton stone from the Harrison Street quarry, a one car garage, and a small in-town lot for a patio. $55,500

Two story colonials in Princeton don't last very long on the market. This one has a grand living room with fireplace, a dining room elegant enough for dinner parties, and an eat-in kitchen with conveniently adjoining family room for the TV crowd. All four bedrooms are big the way colonial bedrooms should be. The full basement has a workshop and plenty of room for recreation. Convenient to schools, shopping, and nature. $67,500

"I never build houses on the top of a hill. I build them around it like an eyebrow." — Wright. The best of Princeton living is yours in this organically set California ranch which would be ideal for the family with teenagers. Enter on one level into a spacious living room with fireplace overlooking the woods and brook and notice the flexibility of a floor plan that can accommodate children of varying ages. Eat-in kitchen, large dining el and two or three bedrooms (or custom den) upstairs. Downstairs, open to a patio, is a full family room with fireplace and pool table, two more bedrooms and bath, a sewing room, and a custom built office with waiting room and separate access. Luxuriously carpeted and including many custom features for $71,500

Once in a while you find a builder with a true sense of the rustic. Natural cedar siding, rustic beams, and tasteful thick mouldings make this traditional Cape Cod a unique custom built home. A nice formal living room, extra large dining room, family room with fireplace, queen size kitchen, and master suite are arranged in an interesting floor plan, while upstairs are three generous bedrooms and a possible fourth if need be. A full dry basement, two car garage, and patio, all on a delightfully wooded 1¾ acre lot. $73,500
